The Search for Selfhood in Modern Literature M. Subjectivity Ruth Robbins, 2005-04-20 Who do you think you are In Subjectivity Ruth Robbins explores some of the responses to this fundamental question In readings of a number of autobiographical texts from the last three centuries Robbins offers an approachable account of formations of the self which demonstrates that both psychology and material conditions often in tension with one another are the building blocks of modern notions of selfhood Key texts studied include William Wordsworth's Prelude Thomas De Quincey's Confessions of an English Opium Eater James Joyce's A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man Oscar Wilde's De Profundis Jung Chang's Wild Swans Robbins also argues that our subjectivity far from being the secure possession of the individual is potentially fragile and contingent She shows that the versions of subjectivity authorized by the dominant culture are full of gaps and blindspots that undo any notion of universal human nature subjectivity is culturally and historically specific we are in part what the culture in which we live permits us to be Concise and easy to follow this introduction to the concept of subjectivity and the theories surrounding it shows that in spite of the insecurity of selfhood there is still much to be gained from the textual encounter with other selves It is essential reading for all those studying autobiography or autobiographical writing

Sounds of Defiance Alan Charles Rosen, 2005-01-01 Language has frequently been at the center of discussions about Holocaust writing Yet English a primary language of neither the persecutors nor the victims has generally been viewed as marginal to the events of the Holocaust Alan Rosen argues that this marginal status profoundly affects writing on the Holocaust in English and fundamentally shapes our understanding of the events Sounds of Defiance chronicles the evolving status of English in writing about the Holocaust from the period of the Second World War to the 1990s Each chapter highlights a representative work from a different genre psychology sociology memoir tales fiction and film and examines the special position of English with regard to the Holocaust supported by references to the role of other languages including Hebrew Yiddish and German This original approach provides a new perspective on such standard works as Eichmann in Jerusalem The Shawl and Maus while drawing attention to others largely unknown Rosen also links this analysis of English writing to developments in the postwar period the escalating production of writing on the Holocaust in English the increasing prestige of English as a global language and paradoxically within the contexts of neocolonial and multilingual studies the increasingly uncertain position of English

The Search for the Self in Statius' ›Thebaid‹ Jean-Michel Hulls, 2021-07-19 The aim of this project is to provide a sustained analysis of the concept of self in Statius Thebaid It is this project's contention that the poem is profoundly interested in ideas of identity and selfhood The poem stages itself as a metapoetic exploration of the difficulties for a belated epicist in finding a place in the literary canon it shows the impossibility of squaring large scale epic poetics with small scale finely wrought Callimacheanism it reflects the violent disjunction between Statius' authorial pose as a poet without power and the extreme violence of his poetics it opens up the intricacies of constructing original coherent characters out of intertextual exemplary models The central tenet of the project is that Statius in the Thebaid stages his own death but does so that his poem may live This book is intended for an academic audience including undergraduate and graduate students as well as specialists in the field Although the project will be of primary importance to readers of Flavian literature it will also be of interest to those who study intertextuality and characterisation in Roman literature more generally selfhood and identity in Roman literature and culture and the reception of Roman literature
