

The background of the slide is an abstract painting by Gerhard Richter. It features a light, textured surface with subtle variations in tone, ranging from off-white to a very light blue-grey. There are some faint, darker, and more textured areas, particularly towards the bottom right, which appear to be reflections or shadows on a surface. The overall effect is one of a soft, atmospheric, and somewhat ethereal scene.

Painting In The Nineties With An Essay The Polemics Of Paint By Peter Gidal:

On Abstract Art Briony Fer, 1997-01-01 Many people are intrigued by the abstract work of artists like Mondrian and Jackson Pollock yet find it difficult to explain why In this timely and original book Briony Fer introduces abstract painting and sculpture of the twentieth century and explores new ways to think about abstract art and the problems of interpretation it raises Fer speculates on the kind of language required to describe the often tantalizing effects of key abstract works and on ways to discuss critical issues when a work of art is without subject matter Drawing particularly on psychoanalytic theory and the writings of Georges Bataille she examines a wide range of models of abstraction ranging from the early European emphasis on the transcendental possibilities of pure form to later modernist frameworks developed in the United States Each of the ten chapters in the book addresses a particular problem associated with abstract art by focusing closely on specific works produced by such artists as Malevich Mondrian Kandinsky Arp Mir Pollock Eva Hesse and Donald Judd Fer investigates the involvement of women artists such as Lyubov Popova and the problems of sexual difference in the development of abstract art Countering the idealizing rhetoric of modernist criticism On Abstract Art uncovers a latent corporeal and darker side to abstraction and deepens today's discussion of a variety of critical concerns in contemporary art
