Gifts, Markets and Economies of Desire in Virginia Woolf K. Simpson, 2008-10-09 This book brings a new dimension to the critical debate about the complex relationship of Woolf to the marketplace and commodity culture through a focus on the gift economy at work in Woolf's writing exploring the political subversiveness of the gift and its significance in her modernist aesthetics Colonial Office List ..., 1932

Between Specters of War and Visions of Peace Gerald M. Mara, 2019-04-03 Since the beginning of the twenty first century recurring political violence at both state and non state levels has eroded confidence in the progressively peaceful character of international relations and has unsettled the parameters of political thought Frames of peace and frames of war have throughout Western thought colored the questions that we ask about politics the descriptions of the pragmatic and moral alternatives that we face and the ideas and metaphors that we use at any given moment These frames as this book argues also obscure too much of political life Gerald M Mara proposes instead a political philosophy that takes both war and peace seriously and a style of theory committed to questioning rather than closure He challenges two powerful currents in contemporary political philosophy the verdict that premodern or metaphysical texts cannot speak to modern and postmodern societies and the insistence that all forms of political theory be some form of democratic theory Mara reexamines seminal texts in the history of political theory from Thucydides to Jacques Derrida and from Machiavelli to Judith Butler to examine how frames of reference of war and peace have structured both the writing of these texts as well as interpretations of them The result is not a linear history of ideas but a series of conversations between them and a democratic justification for moving beyond democratic theory
