Peace War:

Peace, War, and Computers Chris Hables Gray, 2005 Computers are at the heart of war today but even the best missile defense system envisioned by the military would have been useless against box cutters on September 11 Creator of the cult classic Cyborg Handbook and author of Cyborg Citizen hailed by Wired magazine as a ripping good yarn Chris Hables Gray argues that rapid technological development is the order of the day and our future will be determined by who uses it and for what terror or peace A visionary and disarming overview of cyberwar in the twenty first century Peace War and Computers looks beyond the gadgets of techno warfare and the early predictions of a purely cyberspace war to reveal how electronic culture has changed the way we wage war and strive for peace Unmanned aircraft soon to be followed by remote control naval fleets may appear to make warfare more sterile less bloody But as the fighting in Iraq has shown superior technology does not guarantee quick or bloodless victories Essential reading for anyone interested in computers politics and the cutting edge of military strategy and theory Peace War and Computers unlocks the power and pitfalls of computers for war and peace in a world where total war is as unthinkable as apocalyptic war is possible Book jacket War and Peace in Transition Karin Aggestam, Annika Björkdahl, 2009-01-06 A systematic approach to analyzing some of the transient aspects of war and peace with empirical cases that include Iraq Israel Palestine Sri Lanka and the Armenian genocide this book discusses some of the critical and transformative issues in war and peacemaking Considering subjects such as the roles of private military and security companies the use of force in peace support operations how states organizations and individuals contribute to conflict resolution and the challenge of coordinating various peacemaking efforts this study explores the manifold demands and challenges facing external actors such as international peacekeeping forces and mediators Weapons for Peace, Weapons for War Cassady B. Craft, 1999-08-04 On the debate over whether or not arms transfers increase or deter the chances of war Cassady B Craft offers a balanced assessment of the effect of arms transfers on war involvement and outcomes He considers correlations at the state and global level supplier and recipient relationships and the extent of the relationship in the perceptions of individual leaders This is the first study to examine the influence of arms transfers on combined interstate and civil wars Drawing on a variety of theories and quantitative methods including force on force attrition models it uses innovative techniques that have the potential to change the way analysts weigh the impact of weapons sales This book will provide both analysts and policymakers with a comprehensive examination of the various tradeoffs between weapons sales and the probability of conflict Theories of War and Peace Michael E. Brown, Owen R. Cote, Jr., Sean M. Lynn-Jones, Steven E. Miller, 1998-09-15 New approaches to understanding war and peace in the changing international system What causes war How can wars be prevented Scholars and policymakers have sought the answers to these questions for centuries Although wars continue to occur recent scholarship has made progress toward developing more sophisticated and perhaps more useful theories on the causes and prevention of war This volume includes essays by leading scholars on contemporary approaches to understanding war and peace The essays include expositions analyses and critiques of some of the more prominent and enduring explanations of war Several authors discuss realist theories of war which focus on the distribution of power and the potential for offensive war Others examine the prominent hypothesis that the spread of democracy will usher in an era of peace In light of the apparent increase in nationalism and ethnic conflict several authors present hypotheses on how nationalism causes war and how such wars can be controlled Contributors also engage in a vigorous debate on whether international institutions can promote peace In a section on war and peace in the changing international system several authors consider whether rising levels of international economic independence and environmental scarcity will influence the likelihood of war

Unstaging War, Confronting Conflict and Peace Tony Fry, 2019-07-24 This book presents the concept of unstaging war as a strategic response to the failure of the discourse and institutions of peace This failure is explained by exploring the changing character of conflict in current and emergent global circumstances such as asymmetrical conflicts insurgencies and terrorism Fry argues that this pluralisation of war has broken the binary relation between war and peace conflict is no longer self evident and consequentially the changes in the conditions nature systems philosophies and technologies of war must be addressed Through a deep understanding of contemporary war Fry explains why peace fails as both idea and process before presenting Unstaging War as a concept and nascent practice that acknowledges conflict as structurally present and so is not able to be dealt with by attempts to create peace Against a backdrop of increasingly tense relations between global power blocs the beginnings of a new nuclear arms race and the ever increasing human and environmental impacts of climate change a more viable alternative to war is urgently needed Unstaging War is not claimed as a solution but rather as an exploration of critical problems and an opening into the means of engaging with them

War, Peace and World Orders in European History Anja V. Hartmann, Beatrice Heuser, 2002-11 This book explores a new way for students of International Relations to look at war peace and world orders throughout European history The contributors argue that the predominant realist paradigm that focuses on states and their self interest is not applicable to the largest period of European history because states either did not exist or were only in the making Instead they argue we have to look through the eyes of historical entities to see how they understood the world in which they lived The authors use a wide range of case studies focusing on subjects as diverse as the ancient Greek concept of honour and persecution under Communist regimes during the Cold War to explore the ways in which people in different societies at different times perceived and felt about war and peace in the world around them

Visions of Peace Takashi Shogimen, Vicki A. Spencer, 2016-02-17 Visions of Peace Asia and the West explores the diversity of past conceptualizations as well as the remarkable continuity in the hope for peace across global intellectual traditions Current literature prompted by September 11 predominantly focuses on the laws and ethics of just wars or modern ideals of peace Asian and Western ideals of peace before the modern era have largely escaped scholarly attention This book examines Western and Asian visions of peace that existed prior to c 1800 by bringing together experts from a variety of intellectual traditions The historical survey ranges from ancient Greek thought early Christianity and medieval scholasticism to Hinduism classical Confucianism and Tokugawa Japanese learning before illuminating unfamiliar aspects of peace visions in the European Enlightenment Each chapter offers a particular case study and attempts to rehabilitate a forgotten conception of peace and reclaim its contemporary relevance Collectively they provide the conceptual resources to inspire more creative thinking towards a new vision of peace in the present Students and specialists in international relations peace studies history political theory philosophy and religious studies will find this book a valuable resource on diverse conceptions of peace

Women and Peace in the Islamic World Yasmin Saikia, Chad Haines, 2015-01-20 How realistic is the prospect of peace in the Muslim world This question is the predominant focus for global analysis today but its debate frequently ignores the cultural and social complexity of the Muslim world reducing it into a system of states and select actors This book addresses such a failing by exploring how the everyday interactions of women in accordance with Islamic personal ethics can offer the world a new interpretation of peace In particular it focuses on the women in Islamic societies from Aceh to Bosnia Morocco to Bangladesh initiating a dialogue on the role of these women in peacemaking This concentration upon the complex issues of the everyday both enables a detailed exploration of how people conceptualise peace and opens up new frameworks for conflict resolution The discussions that emerge lead to a critical questioning of assumptions about peace as a state policy and cessation of violence Drawing upon original research from different parts of the Middle East North Africa and Asia including Iran India Afghanistan Bangladesh Bosnia Egypt and Sudan the contributors offer a refreshing new look at Muslim women as peacemakers challenging any assumptions of Islam as an inherently violent religion Such a timely work provides new and important analyses on the role of Muslim women in forging new pathways of peace in the contemporary world
