Transformations of Retailing in Europe after 1945 Lydia Langer,2016-02-17 After World War II structures practices and the culture of retailing in most West European countries went through a period of rapid change The post war economic boom the emergence of a mass consumer society and the adaptation of innovations which already had been implemented in the USA during the interwar period revolutionized the world of getting and spending But the implementation of self service and the supermarket the spread of the department store and the mail order business were not only elements of a transatlantic catch up process of Americanization of retailing National patterns of the retail trade and specific cultures of consumption remained crucial and long term processes of change starting in the 1920s or 1930s also had an impact on the transformation of retailing in post war Europe This volume presents a series of case studies looking at transformations of retailing in several European countries offering new insights into the structural preconditions of the emerging mass consumer societies and also into the consequences consumerism had on the practices of retailing Trams Or Tailfins? Jan L. Logemann,2012-11-28 In the years that followed World War II both the United States and the newly formed West German republic had an opportunity to remake their economies Since then much has been made of a supposed Americanization of European consumer societies in Germany and elsewhere Arguing against these foggy notions Jan L Logemann takes a comparative look at the development of postwar mass consumption in West Germany and the United States and the emergence of discrete consumer modernities In Trams or Tailfins Logemann explains how the decisions made at this crucial time helped to define both of these economic superpowers in the second half of the twentieth century While Americans splurged on private cars and bought goods on credit in suburban shopping malls Germans rebuilt public transit and developed pedestrian shopping streets in their city centers choices that continue to shape the quality and character of life decades later Outlining the abundant differences in the structures of consumer society consumer habits and the role of public consumption in these countries Logemann reveals the many subtle ways that the spheres of government society and physical space define how we live Dialogues in Urban and Regional Planning Michael Hibbard,Robert Freestone,Tore Øivin Sager,2013-05-29 Dialogues in Urban and Regional Planning 5 is a selection of some of the best scholarship in urban and regional planning from around the world The internationally recognized authors of these award winning papers take up a range of salient issues from the theory and practice of planning The topics they address include the effects of globalization on world cities metropolitan planning in France and Australia and new research in pedestrian and traffic design The breadth of the topics covered in this book will appeal to all those with an interest in urban and regional planning providing a springboard for further debate and research The papers focus particularly on themes of inclusion urban transformation metropolitan planning and urban design The Dialogues in Urban and Regional Planning DURP book series is published in association with the Global Planning Education Association Network GPEAN and its member national and transnational planning schools associations Research and Innovation Forum 2024 Anna Visvizi,Orlando Troisi,Vincenzo Corvello,Mara Grimaldi,2025-07-26 This book features research presented and discussed during the Research Innovation Forum Rii Forum 2024 As such this book offers a unique insight into emerging topics issues and developments pertinent to the fields of technology innovation and education and their social impact Papers included in this book apply inter and multi disciplinary approaches to query such issues as technology enhanced teaching and learning smart cities information systems cognitive computing and social networking What brings these threads of the discussion together is the question of how advances in computer science which are otherwise largely incomprehensible to researchers from other fields can be effectively translated and capitalized on so as to make them beneficial for society as a whole In this context Rii Forum and Rii Forum proceedings offer an essential venue where diverse stakeholders including academics the think tank sector and decision makers can engage in a meaningful dialogue with a view to improving the applicability of advances in computer science Why Place Matters Wilfred M. McClay,Ted V. McAllister,2014-02-25 Contemporary American society with its emphasis on mobility and economic progress all too often loses sight of the importance of a sense of place and community Appreciating place is essential for building the strong local communities that cultivate civic engagement public leadership and many of the other goods that contribute to a flourishing human life Do we in losing our places lose the crucial basis for healthy and resilient individual identity and for the cultivation of public virtues For one can t be a citizen without being a citizen of some place in particular one isn t a citizen of a motel And if these dangers are real and present ones are there ways that intelligent public policy can begin to address them constructively by means of reasonable and democratic innovations that are likely to attract wide public support Why Place Matters takes these concerns seriously and its contributors seek to discover how given the American people as they are and American economic and social life as it now exists and not as those things can be imagined to be in some utopian scheme we can find means of fostering a richer and more sustaining way of life The book is an anthology of essays exploring the contemporary problems of place and placelessness in American society The book includes contributions from distinguished scholars and writers such as poet Dana Gioia former chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts geographer Yi Fu Tuan urbanist Witold Rybczynski architect Philip Bess essayists Christine Rosen and Ari Schulman philosopher Roger Scruton transportation planner Gary Toth and historians Russell Jacoby and Joseph Amato

The Last Great Walk Wayne Curtis, 2014-09-09 In 1909 Edward Payson Weston walked from New York to San Francisco covering around 40 miles a day and greeted by wildly cheering audiences in every city The New York Times called it the first bona fide walk across the American continent and eagerly chronicled a journey in which Weston was beset by fatigue mosquitoes vicious headwinds and brutal heat He was 70 years old Using the framework of Weston's fascinating and surprising story journalist Wayne Curtis investigates exactly what we lost when we turned away from foot travel and what we could potentially regain with America's new embrace of pedestrianism From how our brains and legs evolved to accommodate our ancient traveling needs to the way that American cities have been designed to cater to cars and discourage pedestrians Curtis guides readers through an engaging intelligent exploration of how something as simple as the way we get from one place to another continues to shape our health our environment and even our national identity Not walking he argues may be one of the most radical things humans have ever done
