Peer Supervision Fastback:

Peer Supervision Daniel A. Heller, 1989 This monograph describes peer supervision as a helping relationship rather than an evaluative one The need for peer supervision is discussed and how to start such a program is described Some practical issues are considered Suggestions are made on funding and institutionalizing a peer supervision program Eight brief case histories of peer supervision in action illustrate the effectiveness of this program JD Fastback ,1978 Resources in Education ,1999-04 Raising Career Aspirations of Hispanic Girls Josefina Villamil Tinajero, María Luisa

González, Florence Dick, 1991 This pamphlet examines the conditions that put female Hispanic Americans at risk of not completing their education and not aspiring to careers and describes a program that takes advantage of the important role played by the mother in Hispanic culture The following factors make female Hispanic Americans the most at risk of all students 1 low grades and disciplinary problems 2 lack of role models 3 disproportionate levels of referrals to special education classes 4 low teacher expectations 5 lack of adequate vocational and career counseling 6 stereotypical portrayals in the curriculum 7 weak educational support at home and 8 mothers with low educational attainment and low educational expectations for their daughters The Mother Daughter Program is a collaborative program involving the University of Texas the YWCA and three El Paso Texas school districts The program targets Hispanic American female students in grade 6 and their mothers from low income families in which no member has graduated from college Mothers are a central focus of the program because their expectations involvement and role modeling have a lasting impact on their daughters educational development Participants engage in a variety of activities on local college campuses and in community service programs Hispanic American college women who serve as role models are a vital component of the program Mothers and daughters participating in the program report increased career awareness self confidence and educational aspirations A list of 20 references is appended FMW Differentiated Career Opportunities for Teachers Ronald M. Jandura, Peter Burke, 1989 This document describes a program in District 742 Community Schools in St Cloud Minnesota called Differentiated Career Opportunities for Teachers This multifaceted program empowers selected teachers with the authority to make decisions and plan programs for their district and individual schools and at the same time to renew their professional lives Through a system of 3 year temporary assignments with additional compensation and protection of their seniority classroom teachers take on a variety of leadership roles The program has been in operation since 1984 and appears to be working well JD

Developing an Effective Teacher Mentor Program Melvin P. Heller, Nancy W. Sindelar, 1991 School districts considering a mentoring program need to consider four things 1 the reasons for a teacher mentor program 2 how to start such a program 3 administrative support needed for a successful program and 4 pitfalls to avoid The reasons for having a mentor program are that it benefits the new teacher the mentor and the school The new teacher s opportunities to exchange views with an experienced teacher is a distinct benefit to him her The mentor benefits also however because of the opportunity to share views experiences and strategies The improved teaching that usually results is an asset to the school Starting a program involves six stages establishing a rationale setting criteria for the selection of mentors defining roles inviting the mentors training the mentors and evaluating the program To be successful the program must have administrative support from the board of education the superintendent the central office staff the teacher union and the principal As with any new program anticipating problems can help to avoid them Some pitfalls are overdependence on the part of the protege ego problems on the part of the mentor and the evaluation dilemma arising from the mentor's dual role of confidant and evaluator Mentorship programs promote professionalism by providing continuous staff development during the first year of teaching AMH

Strategies for Involving Parents in Their Children's Education Linda T. Jones, 1991 This publication presents an overview of programs and practices that schools can use for involving parents in the education of their children at home and in school The first chapter describes programs that demonstrate the ways in which parents can be involved in the education of their children of 1 to 5 years of age A list of 10 approaches for involving parents in their children's early education is included The second chapter discusses the topics of 1 improving communication between home and school 2 helping parents work with their children at home 3 involving parents in school activities 4 developing collaborative planning among parents students and teachers and 5 empowering parents to become decisionmakers in their children's schools The third chapter provides brief descriptions of parent workshops and activities that schools might want to offer or sponsor Some are for parents only others are for parents and children The fourth chapter describes types of school parent collaboration that can improve children's behavior attitudes and study habits The concluding chapter offers guidelines for planning a successful parent involvement program Contains 37 references RH

Community Colleges in the 1990s Glen Gabert, 1991 Designed to provide an overview of the dramatic changes affecting community college education this booklet presents a history of the movement which established community colleges examines issues of particular importance in the 1990s and offers predictions concerning community colleges in the 21st century Following an introduction and brief history the booklet profiles today's community colleges reviewing the mission of two year institutions and describing the characteristics which distinguish them from four year schools Then student enrollments for the 1990s are discussed in terms of the factors contributing to projected enrollment increases This section provides vignettes profiling 13 hypothetical students and the circumstances surrounding their enrollment and highlights the demographic characteristics of the community college students of 1990 The next three sections look at curriculum and instruction staffing and finance respectively each concluding with a series of relevant questions currently facing community colleges The final section provides a series of predictions concerning the status of community colleges in the year 2000 foretelling that the student body will include more minorities and persons over the age of 55 that the majority of faculty will have been hired in the 1990s subsequent to massive retirements and that the academic agendas of fewer community colleges will be dictated by four year institutions PAA

Street Gangs and the Schools Kevin W. Riley, 1991 Schools cannot approach the problem of street gangs with the same strategies as law enforcement agencies but rather must create a nurturing environment for all students where success in school and life becomes the only attractive option for gang members Street gangs represent the racial cultural and economic diversity of American society Gangs are similar to other organizations in that they have a name claim territory have a continuous membership and distinguish themselves from other groups However to qualify as a gang the organization must be involved in criminal activity Gang involvement can range from simple admiration or identification with someone who is in a gang to classification by a law enforcement agency as a documented full participant The following factors contribute to gang involvement 1 power 2 pride 3 prestige 4 peer pressure 5 adventure 6 self preservation 7 money and 8 limited life options Schools must avoid the unproductive approach of attempting to identify and discipline gang members based on stereotyped behaviors A positive educational approach to preventing gang involvement should include the following components 1 staff development 2 values education 3 school climate 4 cultural inclusion and 5 community involvement A list of 24 references is appended FMW
