Kill-Do Not Release Douglass K. Daniel, 2025-08-05 Fighter Writer reports from major battles in the Pacific highlight what America's Marines endured in World War II Douglass K Daniel presents a fascinating trove of previously classified material withheld from the public because of government and public relations concerns at the time including tactical details that could inadvertently aid the enemy battlefield gore that could disturb readers and the gamut of issues of taste Navy censors in the field and editors at Marine Corps headquarters in Washington were also on alert for any material that could negatively affect the Corps itself or the overall war effort Soul searching stories that questioned the nature of war were rejected lest they sow doubt stateside about the cause for which so many lives were being lost Behind the bylines was a new breed of storytellers Considered fighter writers Marine combat correspondents or CCs carried typewriters as well as weapons The Marine Corps Division of Public Relations recruited them from America's newsrooms to join the fight that stretched from Guadalcanal and the bloody assault on Tarawa to the black sands of Iwo Jima and the dense jungles of Okinawa Their approved work appeared in civilian newspapers magazines and other national and local media This collection also highlights the unique efforts of the CCs and the public relations officers who commanded them While they were assigned to report and write they were Marines first They eagerly put aside their notebooks to take up arms against the enemy as needed Many were wounded in battle and more than a dozen were killed giving their lives to get the story behind the most significant conflict in human history Unconditional Defeat Thomas W. Zeiler, 2004 Unconditional Defeat the second book in a Pacific War trilogy that is part of SR Books Total War series examines the concluding stages of World War II in Asia and the Pacific from November 1943 until September 1945 Thomas W Zeiler argues that this war without mercy could only come to one conclusion the complete unconditional defeat of Japan by a mobilized overwhelming vengeful United States Zeiler describes these final 22 months of the Pacific War as a story of contrasts While the U S launched a methodical smothering attack with all the means at its disposal Japan fought a fierce yet hopeless defense with diminishing supplies By November 1943 Japan lacked the necessities not just for victory as in the earlier phases of the war but for adequate defense The Japanese had no options The strategic planning rested with the Americans Zeiler's gripping and thorough overview discusses other contrasts between the two foes The Americans planned multiple advances in the Pacific Ocean and on the Asian mainland They used a massive number of troops devised and adopted new amphibious techniques and deployed the new nuclear category of weapons The Japanese stubbornly but desperately clung to their territory often with the basest of defenses By August 1945 the United States forces at sea on land and in the air had brought Japan near complete defeat In addition the Japanese Empire was diplomatically isolated Japanese politics was in turmoil the government faced rebellion and the Emperor stood on the brink of extinction Wracked by the destruction of the homeland from the air and blockade by sea Japanese society veered near chaos and the people peered into the abyss of an uncertain future In the meantime America's military had experienced such horrors at the hands of Japan that the U S made the difficult decision to unleash the atomic bomb Despite the stark differences between the U S and Japan argues Zeiler there was one aspect of the war that both sides held i

The Illustrated History of American Military Commissaries: The Defense Commissary Agency and its predecessors, since 1989 Peter D. Skirbunt, 2008 Presents a comprehensive history spanning the 233 years of the four major services sales commissaries

War Machines Timothy Moy, 2001 The American military establishment is intimately tied to its technology although the nature of those ties has varied enormously from service to service The air force evokes images of pilots operating hightech weapons systems striking precisely from out of the blue to lay waste to enemy installations The fundamental icon for the Marine Corps is a wave of riflemen hitting the beaches from rugged landing craft and slogging their way ashore under enemy fire How did these very different relationships with technology develop During the interwar years from 1920 to 1940 leaders from the Army Air Corps and the Marine Corps recreated their agencies based on visions of new military technologies In War Machines Timothy Moy examines these recreations and explores how factors such as bureaucratic pressure institutional culture and America s technological enthusiasm shaped these leaders choices The very existence of the Army Air Corps was based on a new technology the airplane As the Air Corps was forced to compete for money and other resources during the years after World War I Air Corps leaders carved out a military niche based on hightech precision bombing The Marine Corps focused on amphibious firstwave assault using sturdy graceless and easy to produce landing craft Moy s astute analysis makes it clear that studying the processes that shaped the Army Air Corps and Marine Corps is fundamental to our understanding of technology and the military at the beginning of the twentyfirst century
