Slater,2021-10-12 Originally published in 1980 this book examines the evolution of the Scottish landscape from pre historic times to the mid nineteenth century It considers the way in which the structural base of agriculture and the changing farming system came to alter the Scottish rural landscape This book with its focus on the underlying landscape processes gives a developmental view of landscape change It therefore considers the crucial question of the rate and pace of landscape change and argues that the Scottish landscape was not the product of a few brief phases of quite rapid development but rather the result of a continual and gradual process of change It also looks at the regional variation of landscape change and establishes the importance of regional linkages in the diffusion of ideas especially in new technology Great Houses of Scotland Hugh Montgomery-Massingberd,Christopher Simon Sykes,1997 26 houses photographed in colour and accompanied by informative text about their history Heritage J.D. Agriculture, Economy and Society in Early Modern Scotland Robert Allan Houston,2024 Showcases the latest research on Scotland s rural economy and society Early modern Scotland was predominantly rural Agriculture was the main occupation of most people at the time so what happened in the countryside was crucial economically socially and culturally

The essays collected here focus on the years between around 1500 and 1750. This period, although before the main era of agricultural improvement in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, was nevertheless far from static in terms of agrarian development. Specific topics addressed include everyday farming practices, investment, landlords, tenants, and estate management, and the cultural context within which agriculture was imagined. The disastrous famine of 1622-23 is analysed in detail. The volume is completed by a comprehensive survey of recent historiography setting agricultural history in its broader context.

A Passion for Castles Janet Brennan-Inglis, 2022-10-06. In the 1880s, two Edinburgh architects began to survey, measure, and sketch the castles of Scotland, travelling the length and breadth of the country on trains, bicycles, and on foot. Together, they produced the five magnificent volumes of The Castellated and Domestic Architecture of Scotland, an unrivalled work of research that surveys more than 700 of Scotland's castellated buildings, ranging from great medieval fortresses to small lairds' houses with pepper pot turrets, and is illustrated with thousands of sketches and plans. The first part of A Passion for Castles tells the life stories of David MacGibbon and Thomas Ross and their work as Edinburgh architects before they embarked on their magisterial survey, revealing interesting and previously unknown details about the two men. The second part of the book sets their enormously ambitious castles project in its historical context and describes how MacGibbon and Ross managed to achieve their pioneering systematic and comprehensive survey. The final part of the book provides a regional overview of the current status of all the castles surveyed by MacGibbon and Ross, followed by a thematic exploration of those that have been lost, those that have been transformed, and those at risk of collapse, before posing questions about what the future holds for the castles of Scotland.
