Radicalizing Lawrence Robert Burden, 2021-12-28 In this study of D H Lawrence and critical theory Robert Burden pays particular attention to the critical formations that underpin the reception history of the main novels including the much maligned leadership novels because strong readings have always contested the meaning and significance of Lawrence and because there has been a persistent reluctance to approach his writing through post structuralist theory This study demonstrates in some detail that once Lawrence's texts are the objects of the newer critical paradigms their principles of coherence are understood differently and that older notions of textual unity are displaced by aesthetic structures of degrees of generic and linguistic destabilization This enables a radicalizing of Lawrence's fiction by drawing out its deconstructive effects on his myth making and essentialist notions of the self The sexual identities represented in the fiction are read as experiments or thought adventures as Lawrence himself characterized his work. The different approaches to Lawrence's writing in this study lead to a radical reassessment of his relationship to Modernism especially in the light of the more elastic concept of Modernism in recent discussion and one which traditional Lawrence scholars have ignored. What emerges is a more self-deconstructive Lawrence with some surprising results. Romeo and Juliet (First International Student Edition) (Norton Critical Editions) William Shakespeare, 2016-10-15. Unbuttoning America Ardis Cameron, 2015-04-30. In this lively account of the writing, publication and legacy of the 1956 bestselling novel Peyton Place, Ardis Cameron tells how the story of a patricide in a small New England village became a cultural phenomenon. Sexual Politics and the Romantic Author Sonia Hofkosh, 1998-06-18. Exploring a range of early nineteenth-century cultural materials from canonical poetry and critical prose to women's magazines and gift book engravings, Sexual Politics and the Romantic Author offers new perspectives on the role of gender in Romanticism's defining paradigms of authorship. The Romantic author's claim to individual agency is complicated by its articulation in a market system perceived to be impelled in large part by fantasies of female desire: by what women read and write, what they buy and sell, how they look and where they look for pleasure. These studies in the contested public spaces of literary labour elaborate the fundamental if invisible function of the woman as embodiment of authorial ambivalence in writing by Austen, Byron, Coleridge, William Hazlitt, Sarah Hazlitt, Leigh Hunt, Keats, Mary Shelley, William Wordsworth and others. Indie Reframed Linda Badley, 2017-02-07. Explores the film practitioners' production and distribution contexts that currently represent American women's independent cinema. With the consolidation of indie culture in the 21st century, female filmmakers face an increasingly indifferent climate. Within this sector, women work across all aspects of writing, direction, production, editing and design, yet the dominant narrative continues to construe amateurish white male auteurs such as Quentin Tarantino or Wes Anderson as the face of indie discourse. Defying the formulaic myths of the mainstream 'chick flick' and the ideological and experimental radicalism of feminist counter cinema alike, women's indie filmmaking is neither ironic, popular nor political enough to be readily absorbed into pre-existing categories. This ground-breaking collection, the first sustained examination of the work of female practitioners within American independent cinema, reclaims the difference of female indie filmmaking.

Through a variety of case studies of directors writers and producers such as Ava DuVernay Lena Dunham and Christine Vachon contributors explore the innovation of a range of female practitioners by attending to the sensibilities ideologies and industrial practices that distinguish their work while embracing the aim between space in which the narratives they represent and embody can be revealed

History, Experience and Cultural Studies Michael Pickering,1997-10-06 This elegantly written and illuminating book explores the attenuated relationship between history and cultural studies reappraising some of the issues and positions which have led to the impasse between them and highlighting the contribution to be made by a new engagement between cultural and historical theory Focusing on the contested concept of experience as a central part of his argument Pickering advances new ways of attending to the myriad voices of everyday cultures past and present

Wordsworth and the Cultivation of Women Judith W. Page, 2024-03-29 Focusing on the poems of Wordsworth's Great Decade feminist critics have tended to see Wordsworth as an exploiter of women and feminine perspectives In this original and provocative book Judith Page examines works from throughout Wordsworth's long career to offer a more nuanced feminist account of the poet's values She asks questions about Wordsworth and women from the point of view of the women themselves and of eighteenth and nineteenth century culture Making extensive use of family letters journals and other documents as well as unpublished material by the poet's daughter Dora Wordsworth Page presents Wordsworth as a poet not defined primarily by egotistical sublimity but by his complicated and conflicted endorsement of domesticity and familial life This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1994
