Children at Their Best Bettye Jo Wray-Fears,Karin Kalbantner-Wernicke,2014-04-21 The authors describe an exciting new way of understanding a child s development by looking at how the Five Elements of Chinese thought can explain patterns of behaviour They list the problems that can occur if a child s elements are not in balance and presents approaches and activities to help them become more balanced happier and more resilient A New Psychology

Based on Community, Equality, and Care of the Earth Arthur W. Blume, 2020-04-14 Explains Native American psychology and how its unique perspectives on mind and behavior can bring a focus to better heal individual social and global disorders Psychology is a relatively new discipline with foundations formed narrowly and near exclusively by white European males But in this increasingly diverse nation and world those foundations filled with implicit bias are too narrow to best help our people and society says author Arthur Blume a fellow of the American Psychological Association According to Blume a narrowly based perspective prevents out of the box thinking research and treatment that could well power greater healing and avoidance of disorders In this text Blume explains the Native American perspective on psychology detailing why that needs to be incorporated as a new model for this field A Native American psychologist he contrasts the original culture of psychology's creators as it includes individualism autonomy independence and hierarchical relationships with that of Native Americans in the context of communalism interdependence earth centeredness and egalitarianism As Blume explains psychological happiness is redefined by the reality of our interdependence rather than materialism and individualism and how we do things becomes as important as what we accomplish
