

An abstract architectural sketch on aged, textured paper. The drawing features a complex network of dark, expressive lines and washes of brown and tan ink. The lines suggest structural elements like beams, columns, and a roofline, though they are not strictly geometric. There are several large, irregular washes of color that create a sense of depth and shadow. The overall composition is dynamic and somewhat chaotic, with lines crisscrossing and overlapping. In the bottom right corner, there are some faint, handwritten markings that look like '96' and 'H'.

Money and Its Origins Shahzavar Karimzadi, 2013 The concept of the origin of money has been a topic of interest and discussion to almost all schools of economic thought However in spite of minor differences of interpretation most views share an underlying core principal about the rise and origin of money implicit in which is the central belief that barter exchange preceded the money economy This new book offers a challenge to this belief and argues that it is only by making this challenge that we will be in the position to accurately trace the roots of money In an ambitious undertaking the book has gathered and classified the major theories of the origin of money and assessed each at length before presenting an innovative alternative theoretical framework for the formation and the rise of money It blends the objections made against the principal explanations of the origins of money and presents a terminological clarification between what can or cannot be classified as money This study has wide ranging implications in terms of both the operation of the economy and the implementation of monetary policy and will be of interest to all those working in the areas of finance monetary economics economic theory and the history of economic thought What's New? Peter Gutierrez,2009

Concise History of Science & Invention Jolyon Goddard,2010 A global view of science and technology as it developed over the centuries Encyclopaedia of the History of Science, Technology, and Medicine in Non-Western Cultures Helaine Selin,1997-07-31 The Encyclopaedia fills a gap in both the history of science and in cultural studies Reference works on other cultures tend either to omit science completely or pay little attention to it and those on the history of science almost always start with the Greeks with perhaps a mention of the Islamic world as a translator of Greek scientific works The purpose of the Encyclopaedia is to bring together knowledge of many disparate fields in one place and to legitimize the study of other cultures science Our aim is not to claim the superiority of other cultures but to engage in a mutual exchange of ideas The Western academic divisions of science technology and medicine have been united in the Encyclopaedia because in ancient cultures these disciplines were connected This work contributes to redressing the balance in the number of reference works devoted to the study of Western science and encourages awareness of cultural diversity The Encyclopaedia is the first compilation of this sort and it is testimony both to the earlier Eurocentric view of academia as well as to the widened vision of today There is nothing that crosses disciplinary and geographic boundaries dealing with both scientific and philosophical issues to the extent that this work does xi PERSONAL NOTE FROM THE EDITOR Many years ago I taught African history at a secondary school in Central Africa The Origins And Spread Of Agriculture And Pastoralism In Eurasia David R. Harris,2024-11-01 As the first book to examine the origins and spread of agriculture and pastoralism in Europe and Asia as a whole this major contribution should be essential reading for archaeologists anthropologists biologists and geographers Adopting a novel approach to the subject the authors examine it first in terms of seven different disciplinary perspectives social ecological genetic linguistic biomolecular epidemiological and geographical Then 20 case studies are presented which are based primarily on archaeological and biological evidence and which relate to three major regions Southwest Asia Europe and Central Asia to the Pacific The book concludes with an overview of Eurasia as a whole The transition from hunting and gathering to agriculture had revolutionary consequences for human society It led to the emergence of urban civilizations and ultimately to humanity's almost complete dependence on relatively few domesticated animals and plants The subject has been much studied but the results have tended to be interpreted largely in terms of local cultural sequences with insufficient comparison made with evidence from other areas In contrast this book provides a continental scale framework with its scope extended to pastoralism because in Eurasia both the raising of livestock and the cultivation of crops were integral components of the agricultural revolution from its inception some 10 000 years ago Comprehensive and authoritative The Origins and Spread of Agriculture and Pastoralism in Eurasia should appeal strongly to the wide readership of students and specialists concerned with the prehistoric antecedents of modern civilization A History of Inventions, Discoveries and Origins Johann Beckmann,1846 A History of Inventions and Discoveries Johann Beckmann,1817 Invented History, Fabricated Power Barry Wood,2020-11-16 Invented History Fabricated Power begins with an examination of prehistoric beliefs in spirits souls mana orenda that provided personal explanation and power through ritual and shamanism among tribal peoples On this foundation spiritual power evolved into various kinds of divine sanction for kings and emperors Sumerian Egyptian Greek Roman Indian Chinese and Japanese As kingships expanded into empires fictional histories and millennia long genealogies developed that portrayed imperial superiority and greatness Supernatural events and miracles were attached to religious founders Hebrew Hindu Buddhist Christian Islamic A unique variation developed in the Roman Church which fabricated papal power through forgeries in the first millennium CE and the later doctrine of discovery which authorized European domination and conquest around the world during the Age of Exploration Elaborate fabrications continued with epic histories and literary cycles from the Persians Ethiopians Franks British Portuguese and Iroquois Indians Both Marxists and Nazis created doctrinal texts which passed for economic or political explanations but were in fact self aggrandizing narratives that eventually collapsed The book ends with the idealistic goals of the current liberal democratic way of life pointing to its limitations as a sustaining narrative along with numerous problems threatening its viability over the long term
