Handbook of Ethnic Conflict Dan Landis, Rosita D. Albert, 2012-02-14 Although group conflict is hardly new the last decade has seen a proliferation of conflicts engaging intrastate ethnic groups It is estimated that two thirds of violent conflicts being fought each year in every part of the globe including North America are ethnic conflicts Unlike traditional warfare civilians comprise more than 80 percent of the casualties and the economic and psychological impact on survivors is often so devastating that some experts believe that ethnic conflict is the most destabilizing force in the post Cold War world Although these conflicts also have political economic and other causes the purpose of this volume is to develop a psychological understanding of ethnic warfare More specifically Handbook of Ethnopolitical Conflict explores the function of ethnic religious and national identities in intergroup conflict In addition it features recommendations for policy makers with the intention to reduce or ameliorate the occurrences and consequences of these conflicts worldwide

Governing Ethnic Conflict Andrew Finlay, 2010-07-15 This book offers an intellectual history of an emerging technology of peace and explains how the liberal state has come to endorse illiberal subjects and practices The idea that conflicts are problems that have causes and therefore solutions rather than winners and losers has gained momentum since the end of the Cold War and it has become more common for third party mediators acting in the name of liberal internationalism to promote the resolution of intra state conflicts These third party peace makers appear to share lessons and expertise so that it is possible to speak of an emergent common technology of peace based around a controversial form of power sharing known as consociation In this common technology of peace the cause of conflict is understood to be competing ethno national identities and the solution is to recognize these identities and make them useful to government through power sharing Drawing on an analysis of the peace process in Ireland and the Dayton Accords in Bosnia Herzegovina the book argues that the problem with consociational arrangements is not simply that they institutionalise ethnic division and privilege particular identities or groups but more importantly that they close down the space for other ways of being By specifying identity categories consociational regimes create a residual sink category designated other These others not only offer a challenge to prevailing ideas about identity but also stand in reproach to conventional wisdom regarding the management of conflict This book will be of much interest to students of conflict resolution ethnic conflict identity and war and conflict studies in general Andrew Finlay is Lecturer in Sociology at Trinity College Dublin

Ethnic Conflict, Tribal Politics Kenneth Christie, 2020-11-25 There is an urgent need for a book which combines the approaches of political science sociology and history and particularly comparative politics with ethnic studies There are currently many rapid and significant changes taking place in the world political map in terms of ethnic conflict How do we explain these changes How do we analyse them How can we compare them How do we make sense of the different ethnic conflicts that have taken place since the end of the Cold War in what some observers have dubbed the New World Order Few books on the market combine the diverse approaches of political science sociology and history at any level of analysis This work will remedy at least some of the deficiencies in the existing literature and be truly interdisciplinary in nature

Peace Processes and Peace Accords Samir Kumar Das, 2005-11-05 The second volume in the South Asian Peace Studies series

Peace Processes and Peace Accords looks at the political question of peace from three perspectives the process of peace the contentious issues involved in the peace process and the ideologies that come in conflict in this process Arguing that peace is not a one time event to be achieved and rejoiced over but a matter to be sustained against various odds the contributors show that the sustainability of peace depends on a foundation of rights justice and democracy Peace accords they maintain are only a moment in the process the very act of signing an accord could mark either a continuation of the same conflict or simply its metamorphosis Therefore as this volume shows negotiation should be redefined as joint problem solving on a long term sustained basis rather than one off hard bargaining

International Mediation Bias and Peacemaking Isak Svensson, 2014-11-27 This book examines the effect of biased and neutral mediators in civil wars Based on analysis of both global data and case studies of contemporary peace processes including India and Norway in Sri Lanka China in Cambodia US in Israel Palestine and Russia in Georgia the book makes two main contributions First it explores the role of biased mediators in contemporary peace processes The author develops a theory explaining why biased mediators are more effective than their neutral counterparts and the book identifies four different mechanisms through which biased mediators can be effective peace brokers By developing a comprehensive set of mechanisms to explain bias mediation the work deepens understanding of biased mediators in general and their role in resolving civil conflict in particular The second contribution offered is a novel way of measuring mediation success Previous research has concentrated on settlement behavior or implementation While these conceptualisations of mediation success all have merit they fail to address how the basic incompatible positions are regulated This book focuses on mediators ability to regulate core compatibilities by crafting institutional peace arrangements that generally are considered to enhance the prospect for durable peace This approach has wider implications for peace and conflict research by bringing together research on durability of peace and studies on international mediation two fields of research which hitherto have been kept apart This book will be of much interest to students of international mediation conflict management civil wars security studies and IR in general constitutions for managing ethnic or religious diversity explains their legal limits under international human rights law and provides a conceptual framework for analysing the nexus between law and peacemaking The book argues that the relationship between the content of peace agreements and post conflict constitutions their negotiation process and the element of time needs to be untangled to better understand the legal limits of statebuilding in the aftermath of armed conflict It is a key resource for scholars in human rights law and peace and conflict studies advisers in peace processes constitution makers and peace mediators

Managing and Settling Ethnic Conflicts NA NA,2016-09-27 Interest in the study of ethnic conflict has grown over the past decade This is partly due to its re emergence in Central and Eastern Europe after the collapse of communism as well as its prolonged and violent manifestation in Sri Lanka East Timor Ethiopia Eritrea the Middle East Corsica and the Spanish part of the Basque country Moreover events in Kosovo and East Timor prompted the international community to engage in controversial and often difficult peace making and peacekeeping operations This collection seeks to explore the issues surrounding this type of conflict Following a theoretical introduction recognized experts in ethnopolitics provide in depth case studies covering each of the major approaches to conflict management and settlement in different geographic regions The conclusion summarizes the findings and assesses future prospects Thus a comprehensive picture of the state of the discipline emerges alongside an overview of current ethnic conflicts worldwide
