Peace Building And Police Reform:

Peacebuilding and Police Reform Espen Barth Eide, Tor Tanke Holm, 2013-11-05 The contributions here discuss the issue of internationally assisted police reform in transitions from war to peace. They include theoretical insights and informed case studies and a discussion of the trend towards internationally provided executive authority policing. Peacebuilding and Police Reform Espen Barth Eide, 2000 First Published in 2000 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis, an informal company.

International Assistance to Police Reform Steffen Eckhard, 2016-06-16 This book compares police reform operations in Kosovo and Afghanistan, addressing the internal machinery that makes peace operations work or not. Recognizing that the chances for effective peacebuilding vary widely across contexts, this book investigates the impact of one of the few variables that peacebuilders do control: the management and design of peace operations. Building on field research and over one hundred expert interviews, International Assistance to Police Reform Managing Peacebuilding systematically compares such operations in two different contexts: Kosovo and Afghanistan, by focusing specifically on international assistance for local police reform since 1999. Four comprehensive case studies examine operations in Kosovo and Afghanistan before and after the European Union took over police reform responsibilities in Kosovo from the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) and in Afghanistan from the German government. Speaking to scholars and practitioners in domestic and international organizations, the book drills in the complex relation between headquarter diplomats and field-level conflict experts. Its findings combine to a set of recommendations for policy makers to better align their operations to the contentious politics of conflict management and peacebuilding. Peacebuilding And Police Reform Tor Tanke Holm, 2012-10-12

Reforms of local police forces in conflict or post-conflict areas need to be dealt with in order to create a certain level of security for the local people. This volume presents the discussions of professionals in the field of peacekeeping, civilian police activities and police reform, both academics and practitioners, on the issue of internationally assisted police reform in transitions from war to peace. Contributions include theoretical insights and informed case studies from El Salvador and Guatemala, the Balkans, West Bank and Gaza, and Mozambique and South Africa. Local Legitimacy in Peacebuilding Birte Julia Gippert, 2017-08-15 This book analyses the role of legitimacy in explaining local actors' compliance with international peacebuilding operations. The book provides a comparative, micro-level study of local actors' reasons for compliance with or resistance to international peacebuilding. Specifically, it analyses three pathways to compliance: legitimacy, coercion and reward-seeking, to explore local police officers' compliance with the reforms stipulated by the EU Police Mission in Bosnia and the EU Rule of Law Mission in Kosovo. The work constructs a holistic framework of the mechanisms connecting each pathway to compliance and measures legitimacy using micro-level indicators. This study not only shines light on the question why local actors comply, a crucial factor in mission effectiveness, but it also illuminates exactly how compliance works. The book contributes nuanced evidence about the often heralded importance of legitimacy in peacebuilding, showing exactly in which situations local legitimacy matters and in which it does not It is also highly relevant for policy makers as it unpacks and explains the mechanisms behind local legitimacy assisting in understanding this usually nebulous concept This book demonstrates the need for micro level analysis by revealing the relevant processes of legitimation usually hidden behind commonly perceived social fault lines such as the Serb Albanian divide in Kosovo This book will be of much interest to students of peacebuilding war and conflict studies Balkans politics security studies and International Relations

Institutional Reforms and Peacebuilding Nadine Ansorg,Sabine Kurtenbach,2016-09-13 This book deals with the question how institutional reform can contribute to peacebuilding in post war and divided societies In the context of armed conflict and widespread violence two important questions shape political agendas inside and outside the affected societies How can we stop the violence And how can we prevent its recurrence Comprehensive negotiated war terminations and peace accords recommend a set of mechanisms to bring an end to war and establish peace including institutional reforms that promote democratization and state building Although the role of institutions is widely recognized their specific effects are highly contested in research as well as in practice This book highlights the necessity to include path dependency pre conflict institutions and societal divisions to understand the patterns of institutional change in post war societies and the ongoing risk of civil war recurrence It focuses on the general question of how institutional reform contributes to the establishment of peace in post war societies This book comprises three separate but interrelated parts on the relation between institutions and societal divisions on institutional reform and on security sector reform The chapters contribute to the understanding of the relationship between societal cleavages pre conflict institutions path dependency and institutional reform This book will be of much interest to students of peacebuilding conflict resolution development studies security studies and IR

Peacebuilding and Police Reform ,1999 European Union Peacebuilding and Policing Michael Merlingen,Rasa Ostrauskaite,2006-09-27 This new volume draws on the work of Michel Foucault to make the case that the EU s self image as a model peacebuilder conceals another side of the European Security and Defence Policy ESDP It brings together and connects new research on European integration security policing and political sociology in an important and original way

Peacebuilding and police reform in the new Europe: lessons from Kosovo Dr. Thomas Feltes,2008-01-08 Abstract Police Reform in countries in transition is closely connected to peacekeeping and peacebuilding The article discusses successes and failures and the role of police using Kosovo as an example It is essential to know whether strategies structures and methods of military and police interventions are working and we need to know whether the reform of administration police and judiciary in the aftermath of an international intervention is sustainable As peace and justice go together the role of police reform in the context of the reform of the judiciary is discussed There is an open clash between the mainstream international understanding of what a just society or a society functioning under the rule of law is or should be on one side and the local understanding of the members of a society who survived different kinds of suppression and war over years or centuries often

Peace Figuration after International Intervention Gëzim Visoka, 2016-07-01 This book examines the adverse impacts of liberal peacebuilding in conflict affected societies It introduces peace figuration as a new analytical framework for studying the intentionality performativity and consequences of liberal peacebuilding The work challenges current theories and views and searches for alternative non conflicted research avenues that are suitable for understanding how peacebuilding intentions are made how different events shape peace outcomes and what are the consequences of peacebuilding interventions Drawing on detailed case studies of peacebuilding in Bosnia and Herzegovina Kosovo and Timor Leste the book argues that attempts to build peace often fail to achieve the intended outcomes A figurational view of peacebuilding interventions shows that post conflict societies experience multiple episodes of success and failure in an unpredictable trajectory This book develops a relational sociology of peacebuilding impact which is crucial for overcoming static measurement of peacebuilding successes or failures It shows that international interventions can shape peace but importantly not always in the shape they intended This book will be of much interest to students of statebuilding peacebuilding war and conflict studies security studies and IR

Peacebuilding and Post-War Transitions Lisa Gross, 2017-02-17 This book asks how and under what conditions external domestic interactions impact on peacebuilding outcomes during transitions to peace and democracy Why do so many peacebuilding interventions in post war states result in stalled transitions despite heavy international support This book suggests a new interaction based explanation for this puzzle and proposes an analytical framework of peacebuilding interactions Based on eight cases of peacebuilding interactions it demonstrates that the limited rationality of the actors involved in external domestic interactions influenced the post war transition results in Kosovo Drawing on interviews and focus groups the insights build on the process tracing of peacebuilding reforms in the area of Local Governance and Police Reform with a specific focus at the local level Through an in depth analysis of peacebuilding negotiations this book shows how peacebuilders use of ad hoc interaction tactics intended as heuristics to simplify decision making in overly complex post war environments have the unintended effect of offering domestic actors additional leeway to prioritise their domestic agenda often at the expense of achieving full democratisation The resulting consequences of these actions mean that even in highly resourced interventions such as those implemented in Kosovo stalled transitions become one of the most likely outcome of the peacebuilding process This book will be of much interest to students of peacebuilding war and conflict studies European politics security studies and IR in general

Peacebuilding in Africa Kelechi A. Kalu, George Klay Kieh Jr., 2021-08-18 Peacebuilding in Africa The Post Conflict State and Its Multidimensional Crises argues that building enduring peace in post conflict states in Africa requires comprehensive state specific approaches that address the multidimensional crises that generated civil conflict and instabilities in these countries Contributors examine states such as Burundi the Democratic Republic of the Congo Liberia Rwanda Sierra Leone South Sudan and Sudan to demonstrate that peacebuilding projects in each of these states must address the cultural economic political and social root causes of their respective underlying civil conflicts In addition contributors prove that peacebuilding projects must be shaped by the centrality of human security the respect for ethno cultural diversity the advancement of human material well being the protection of political rights and civil liberties and the redesigning of the military and security architecture to ensure the safety of all citizens from both internal and external threats

Hybridity in Peacebuilding and Development Lia Kent, Miranda Forsyth, Sinclair Dinnen, Joanne Wallis, Srinjoy Bose, 2020-06-29 The concept of hybridity highlights complex processes of interaction and transformation between different institutional and social forms and normative systems It has been used in numerous ways to generate important analytical and methodological insights into peacebuilding and development Its most recent application in the social sciences has also attracted powerful critiques that have highlighted its limitations and challenged its continuing usage This book examines whether the value of hybridity as a concept can continue to be harnessed and how its shortcomings might be mitigated or overcome It does so in an interdisciplinary way as hybridity has been used as a benchmark across multiple disciplines and areas of practical engagement over the past decade including peacebuilding state building justice reform security development studies anthropology and economics This book encourages a dialogue about the uses and critiques of hybridity from a variety of perspectives and vantage points including deeply ethnographic works high level theory and applied policy work The authors conclude that there is continued value in the concept of hybridity but argue that this value can only be realised if the concept is engaged with in a reflexive and critical way This book was originally published as a special issue of the online journal Third World Thematics The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Peace and Conflict Studies Oliver P. This book examines and compares the diverging security approaches of the UK China and India in peacebuilding settings with a specific focus on the case of Nepal Rising powers such as China and India dissent from traditional templates of peacebuilding and apply their own methods to respond to security issues This book fills a gap in the literature by examining how emerging actors China and India engage with security and development and how their approaches differ from those of a traditional actor the UK In the light of democratic peace and regional security complex theories the book interprets interview data to compare and contrast the engagement of these three actors with post war Nepal and the implications for security sector governance and peacebuilding It contends that the UK helped to peacefully manage transition but that the institutional changes were merely ceremonial China and India by contrast were more effective in advancing mutual security agendas through elite level interactions However the hardware of security for example material and infrastructure support gained more consideration than the software of security such as meritocratic governance and institution building This book will be of much interest to students of peacebuilding development studies Asian politics security studies and International
