Pearl King And Other Poems:

The Pearl King and Other Poems Catherine Greenwood, 2004 Catherine Greenwood draws on the stories and legends which surround the development of cultured pearls by Mikimoto the fabulous Pearl King to engage a rich array of themes including the clash between an aesthetics of refinement and nuance and mass manufacture With discerning wit and a large range of styles and voices she holds up each subject for contemplation as though it were a pearl and explores the sometimes bizarre consequences of an overwhelming rage for beauty As the seal is strong and breathes air As the fish is quick and breathes water So make me a mermaid strong and quick Bless me with abalone abundant as mushrooms Oysters dropping ripe as plums into my palm Let my births keep me ashore a few days only Only for a little while let labour make me rest from The Diving Girls Prayer When in other sections of the book Catherine Greenwood turns her attention to such matters as the still birth of a calf teeth moles or the Shetland Island stone she does so with the same care for the exact fit of style the same sharply angled craft The ancient Taoists believed that a pearl was grounded at the soul's centre that it took wisdom and clarity to create its essence Catherine Greenwood's first collection of poems is proof of that Here is a new pearl the beginning of a strand I hope that will continue to be added to with such depth of field and luminosity Don Domanski The Pearl King, and Other Poems Catherine Greenwood, 2004 The Malahat Review, 2005 Canadian Books in Print.
