resource depletion rising population growth density and inequality and global political economic and health crises Living with AIDS in Uganda Monica Karnhanga Beraho, 2023-08-28 This book was originally written as a doctoral dissertation The research in this book was carried out among banana farming households in the districts of Masaka and Kabarole in Uganda A gendered livelihood approach was used The research focused on the identification of critical factors that need to be taken into consideration in the development of relevant policies for HIV AIDS affected agriculture based households or those that are at risk The book shows that HIV AIDS causes significant negative effects on the lives of those affected Their resources are affected due to HIV AIDS related labour loss and asset eroding effects and disinvestment in production and child education While in the overwhelming majority of the affected cases the effects of AIDS are negative and lead to increased impoverishment and vulnerability for some households HIV AIDS related effects are manageable It is concluded that a household's socio economic status and demographic characteristics influence the magnitude of HIV AIDS related impacts experienced and capacity to cope The book also highlights some historically specific social practices policies and ideologies that continue to maintain or reproduce distinct forms of inequality with certain social groups being marginalized and others being privileged Unless these are redressed they will continue to aggravate people's vulnerability regardless of the type of shock that they are exposed to or experience Agricultural Policies in Developing Countries Frank Ellis, 1992-01-30 This book is designed for undergraduate and graduate students taking courses related to agricultural policy agricultural economics or rural development in developing countries Frontier Making in the Amazon Antonio Augusto Rossotto Ioris, 2020-01-21 This book discusses the outcomes of more than ten years of research in the southern tracts of the Amazon region and addresses the expansion of the agricultural frontier consolidation of the agribusiness based economy and expansion of regional infrastructure roads dams urban centres etc It combines extensive empirical evidence with the international literature on frontier making and regional Amazonian development and adopts a critical politico geographical perspective that will benefit scholars in various other disciplines This book is intended to push the current theoretical and methodological boundaries regarding the controversies and impacts of agribusiness in the region A new international scientific network led by the author is investigating the broader context of the themes analysed here FARM

CLASSIFICATION Analysis of production and income variation, Atlantic Zone, Costa Rica , Land, Proto-Industry and Population in Catalonia, c. 1680-1829 Julie Marfany, 2016-04-22 This monograph makes a fresh contribution to a longstanding but far from exhausted debate concerning the transition to capitalism in Europe The work investigates key aspects of this transformation the changes on the land the origins of the industrial revolution the modern rise of population and the growth of markets It does so from a new perspective however by focusing on an area of southern Europe Catalonia Catalonia's interest as an area for study lies in its precocity within a southern European context as one of the few regions on the European periphery to industrialise in comparable ways and at the same time as areas of northern Europe Population growth was similarly rapid The study engages critically with several important debates in economic and social history such as the transition to agrarian capitalism whether or not sharecropping should be viewed as a backwards form of agricultural production theories of proto industrialisation and theories of population change It also questions claims that the nuclear family of north western Europe was a superior model for industrialisation than the more extended family structures prevalent in southern Europe Not only could the extended family be as dynamic as the nuclear family when required but more importantly attention needs to be paid to other institutions and factors that may have conditioned family forms and decision making processes The approach taken by this work is a micro study of one community Iqualada an important proto industrial centre but also situated within the viticultural region It grew rapidly over the eighteenth century from around 1 700 inhabitants in 1717 to 4 900 in 1787 and around 7 700 by 1830 Only at the micro level is it feasible for an individual study to reconstruct networks of relationships and patterns of decision making at the household level At the core of the book therefore is a family reconstitution of 8 700 families supplemented by a wide body of additional sources such as landholding contracts tax records manorial surveys inventories marriage contracts and letters The New Peasantries Jan Douwe van der Ploeg, 2012-05-23 This book explores the position role and significance of the peasantry in an era of globalization particularly of the agrarian markets and food industries It argues that the peasant condition is characterized by a struggle for autonomy that finds expression in the creation and development of a self governed resource base and associated forms of sustainable development In this respect the peasant mode of farming fundamentally differs from entrepreneurial and corporate ways of farming The author demonstrates that the peasantries are far from waning Instead both industrialized and developing countries are witnessing complex and richly chequered processes of re peasantization with peasants now numbering over a billion worldwide The author's arguments are based on three longitudinal studies in Peru Italy and The Netherlands that span 30 years and provide original and thought provoking insights into rural and agrarian development processes The book combines and integrates different bodies of literature the rich traditions of peasant studies development sociology rural sociology neo institutional economics and the recently emerging debates on Empire Dragons with Clay Feet? Max Spoor, Nico Heerink, Futian Qu, 2007-02-16 Dragons with Clay Feet presents state of the art research on the impact of ongoing and anticipated economic policy and institutional reforms on agricultural development and sustainable rural resource in two East Asian transition and developing economies China and Vietnam The contributions to this volume focus on the regional and sectoral impact of transformational policies farm household decision making under a changing economic and institutional environment and potential trade offs between agricultural growth and sustainable land management in the two countries The analysis of household responses to economic policies and changing institution and their implications for agricultural production and sustainable resource use in East Asian transition economies is a relatively new research field This collection by a group of Chinese Vietnamese and international researchers reflect the rapid progress that is being made in this important research field Adoption of agricultural innovations by smallholder farmers in the context of HIV/AIDS Faith N. Nguthi, 2023-08-28 Using tissue cultured technology is a potentially important way for smallholder banana farmers to improve their yields and income In the situation of the impoverishing effects of high HIV AIDS prevalence in a rural banana farming community this applies even more The research documented in this book examines the balance between required inputs and potential benefits of applying the tissue cultured technology among HIV AIDS affected and non affected households in Maragua district Central Kenya using a livelihood approach The results show that adoption of the technology and its continued use differs according to the resources endowment of the farming households Lack of financial and physical capital notably a water tank inhibits adoption irrespective of HIV AIDS status However households headed by elderly females dominate among the poor households and the HIV AIDS affected households This illustrates how HIV AIDS interfaces with poverty and thereby indirectly with the feasibility of sustainable technology adoption The research also shows that livelihood decisions and strategies of farming households are influenced by land tenure status having title deeds or not and labour constraints at the household level The latter arise as a consequence of HIV AIDS related morbidity and mortality Forests and Rural Development Jürgen Pretzsch, Dietrich Darr, Holm Uibrig, Eckhard Auch, 2014-01-21 This book provides an overview of the complex challenges and opportunities related to forest based rural development in the tropics and subtropics Applying a socio ecological perspective the book traces the changing paradigms of forestry in rural development throughout history summarizes the major aspects of the rural development challenge in forest areas and documents innovative approaches in fields such as land utilization technology and organizational development rural advisory services financing mechanisms participative planning and forest governance It brings together scholars and practitioners dealing with the topics from various theoretical and practical angles Calling for an approach that carefully balances market forces with government intervention the book shows that forests in rural areas have the potential to provide a solid foundation for a green global economy Transforming Agrarian Economies Thomas P. Tomich, Peter Kilby, Bruce F. Johnston, 2018-05-31 The world's 58 poorest countries are diverse in many respects but they share the characteristic of a labor force overwhelmingly dependent on agriculture Challenging the assumption that mass poverty and chronic hunger are insoluble problems this book systematically explores the multiple aspects of economic development in these countries which are home to 60 percent of the world's population The authors offer a broad based development strategy to raise incomes through agricultural productivity growth and expanded rural employment They present rich new information on the rural informal sector and on agriculture industry interactions and they analyze the impact of macroeconomic and social policies on the rural economy Policy instruments aimed at bringing about broad based development are carefully assessed from fiscal policy to development of new seeds and farm implements The book includes detailed case studies of countries that have seized or missed development opportunities Comparison of the successful economic transformations of Japan and the United States shows how key ideas which the authors call strategic notions have enabled policymakers to act with foresight Analyses of strategic choices in China the Soviet Union Taiwan Mexico Kenya and Tanzania also show how development strategies that emerge from the real world political economy reflect a mix of individual interests and strategic notions
