Making a Difference in Urban Schools Jane Stobo Gaskell, Ben Levin, 2012-01-01 Making a Difference in Urban Schools evaluates how school and community leaders have worked to change urban education in Canada for the better over the past fifty years

Schooling the System Funké Aladejebi, 2021-03-05 In post World War II Canada black women's positions within the teaching profession served as sites of struggle and conflict as the nation worked to address the needs of its diversifying population From their entry into teachers college through their careers in the classroom and administration black women educators encountered systemic racism and gender barriers at every step So they worked to change the system Using oral narratives to tell the story of black access and education in Ontario between the 1940s and the 1980s Schooling the System provides textured insight into how issues of race gender class geographic origin and training shaped women's distinct experiences within the profession By valuing women's voices and lived experiences Funk Aladejebi illustrates that black women as a diverse group made vital contributions to the creation and development of anti racist education in Canada As cultural mediators within Ontario school systems these women circumvented subtle and overt forms of racial and social exclusion to create resistive teaching methods that centred black knowledges and traditions Within their wider communities and activist circles they fought to change entrenched ideas about what Canadian citizenship should look like As schools continue to grapple with creating diverse educational programs for all Canadians Schooling the System is a timely excavation of the meaningful contributions of black women educators who helped create equitable policies and practices in schools and communities

Creating This Place Linda Cullum, Marilyn Porter, 2014-04-01 The twentieth century witnessed both the formation of Newfoundland as a self conscious national entity and the construction of distinct and self aware middle and upper classes in its capital city This interdisciplinary collection examines the key roles played by women in the creation of this state and society and the essential influence that gender ethnicity and religion played in class relations Shifting class relations were formed in the salient political events of the first half of the twentieth century in Newfoundland the First World War the suffrage movement the Great Depression the Second World War and finally Newfoundland's contested entry into the Canadian Confederation Creating This Place shows how upper middle and working class worlds were established in the everyday work of women as well as the ways in which the complex social boundaries of the period were constructed Individual chapters explore issues such as women's work in religious and voluntary institutions their struggle for voice suffrage and political change work of domestic servants and the construction of proper women and mothers through denominational education Creating This Place adopts an innovative perspective on Newfoundland and studies and critical social theory Dr Lenskyj situates two stories her own and that of her mother within the broader Australian socio cultural context of the period from 1900 to 1960 She presents the background for her mother s narrative beginning in 1832 when her grandfather arrived in Sydney Australia as a convict She then examines her own experience as a working class child attending a private school in the 1950s Moving to Toronto the story continues by documenting the interventions of mothers involved in school community activism in the 1960s and 1970s Reflecting on her experiences since 1986 as an openly lesbian professor at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education University of Toronto Dr Lenskyj includes a critical analysis of lesbian and gay activism aimed at educational change and of developments in feminist
