Manufacturing Africa:

Manufacturing Africa Roger Riddell, Peter Coughlin, 1990 Made in Africa Carol Newman, John Page, John Rand, 2016-02-23 Why is there so little industry in Africa Over the past forty years industry has moved from the developed to the developing world yet Africa's share of global manufacturing has fallen from about 3 percent in 1970 to less than 2 percent in 2014 Industry is important to low income countries It is good for economic growth job creation and poverty reduction Made in Africa Learning to Compete in Industry outlines a new strategy to help African industry compete in global markets This book draws on case studies and econometric and qualitative research from Africa and emerging Asia to understand what drives firm level competitiveness in low income countries The results show that while traditional concerns such as infrastructure skills and the regulatory environment are important they alone will not be sufficient for Africa to industrialize The book also addresses how industrialization strategies will need to adapt to the region's growing resource abundance Industrial Development in Africa Berhanu Abegaz, 2018-02-21 Industrial Development in Africa critically synthesizes and reframes the debates on African industrial development in a capability opportunity framework It recasts the challenge in a broader comparative context of successive waves of catchup industrialization experiences in the European periphery Latin America and East Asia Berhanu Abegaz explores the case for resource based and factor based industrialization in North Africa and Sub Saharan Africa by drawing on insights from the history of industrialization development economics political economy and institutional economics Unpacking complex and diverse experiences the chapters look at Africa at several levels continent wide sub regions on both sides of the Sahara and present analytical case studies of 12 representative countries Egypt Tunisia Ethiopia Kenya Tanzania Mauritius Zimbabwe South Africa Ghana Nigeria Senegal and Cote d'Ivoire Industrial Development in Africa will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students studying African development African economics and late stage industrialization The book will also be of interest to policymakers Borderless Africa Francis Mangeni, Andrew Mold, 2024-04-18 The African Continental Free Trade Area established in 2018 represented a monumental step forward for Africa in terms of meeting longstanding aspirations for greater economic and political integration But it has nonetheless been met with scepticism in some quarters both within the continent and beyond Borderless Africa makes the case for the AfCFTA in an accessible and compelling way without shying away from technical and academic debates Francis Mangeni and Andrew Mold take us on a journey through the different dimensions and implications of the AfCFTA the largest free trade zone in the world starting with its underlying economic rationale Pointing to the numerous historical examples of successful regional integration they argue that the African continent will need to take on board such lessons as the agreement is implemented They discuss too the more controversial elements of the AfCFTA including the freedom of movement protocol contending that this should not be seen as an optional extra but as an intrinsic part of the accord Also exploring the role of external partners in the construction of an economically

Market Access, Supplier Access, and Africa's Manufactured Exports Ibrahim Elbadawi, Taye Mengistae, 2006 In a large cross country sample of manufacturing establishments drawn from 188 cities average exports per establishment are smaller for African firms than for businesses in other regions The authors show that this is mainly because on average African firms face more adverse economic geography and operate in poorer institutional settings Once they control for the quality of institutions and economic geography what in effect is a negative African dummy disappears from the firm level exports equation they estimate One part of the effect of geography operates through Africa's lower foreign market access African firms are located further away from wealthier or denser potential export markets A second occurs through the region's lower supplier access African firms face steeper input prices partly because of their physical distance from cheaper foreign suppliers and partly because domestic substitutes for importable inputs are more expensive Africa's poorer institutions reduce its manufactured exports directly as well as indirectly by lowering foreign market access and supplier access Both geography and institutions influence average firm level exports significantly more through their effect on the number of exporters than through their impact on how much each exporter sells in foreign markets World Bank web site
