Language, Society and the State in a Changing World Stanley D.

Brunn,Roland Kehrein,2023-04-08 This book addresses the changing contemporary language worlds in three major contexts It first discusses how the language landscape maps of cities are changing as a result of increased migration globalization and global media These features are evident in place names and place name changes as well as the densities and frequencies of language spoken and used in texts The second section discusses how the state itself is responding to both indigenous and heritage groups desiring to be included and represented in the state s political landscapes and also expressions of art and culture In the third section the authors address a number of cutting edge theses that are emerging in the linguistic geography and political words These include the importance of gender anthropogenetic discourse the preservation of endangered languages and challenges to a state s official language policy Through including authors from nine different countries who are writing about issues in twelve countries and their overlapping interests in language mapping language usage and policy and visual representations this book provides inspiring research into future topics at local national regional and international scales

The World in Brooklyn Judith DeSena,Timothy Shortell,2012-03-22 The World in Brooklyn Gentrification Immigration and Ethnic Politics in a Global City is a collection of scholarly papers which analyze demographic social political and economic trends that are occurring in Brooklyn Brooklyn as the context reflects global forces while also contributing to them The idea for this volume developed as the editors discovered a group of scholars from different disciplines and various universities studying Brooklyn Brooklyn has always been legendary and has more recently regained its stature as a much sought after place to live work and have fun Popular folklore has it that most U S residents trace their family origins to Brooklyn It is presently referred to as one of the hippest places in New York Thus this book is a collection of demographic ethnographic and comparative studies which focus on urban dynamics in Brooklyn The chapters investigate issues of social class urban development immigration race ethnicity and politics within the context of Brooklyn As a whole this book considers both theoretical and practical urban issues In most cases the scholarly perspective is on everyday life With this in mind there are also social justice concerns Issues of social segregation and attendant homogenization are brought to light Moreover social class and race advantages or disadvantages as part of urban processes are underscored through critiques of local policy decisions throughout the chapters A common thread is the assertion by contributors that planning the future of Brooklyn needs to include multi ethnic racial and economic groups those very residents who make up Brooklyn

Engineering Education in the Rapidly Changing World Aldert Kamp,2023-06-21 The first edition inspired many conversations about The Future Engineer at my home university and many partner universities and institutes abroad The Free Spirits Think Tank of the 4TU Centre of Engineering Education in the Netherlands which investigates the rise of new engineering profiles in the coming 10 to 15 years and develops matching scenarios for campus education in 2030 has taken my vision as a source of inspiration The numerous meetings and workshops I attended between engineering academics industries and engineering consultancies in the Netherlands and abroad and the conferences and panels of the global CDIO Initiative and the World Engineering Education Forum WEEF in Florence 2015 all discussed the subject of the engineer and industry of the future They addressed the impact of the changing global economy the fast pace of change the limited shelf life of specialist knowledge the university s role in innovation the need for an interdisciplinary mind set the global interconnectedness the rise of machine intelligence and the use of open standards These are all aspects that shape the rapidly changing world in which we live and in which we educate tomorrow s engineers who might be a different breed than the ones we have been educating over the past 50 years These factors set the scene for the why and what of our future education Historical Mapping ,1999 Global Mapping of Human Settlement Paolo Gamba,Martin Herold,2009-06-23

The use of remote sensors for human settlement mapping and monitoring holds great promise for numerous fields of study including urban planning and global environmental change and sustainability While the potential for this technology is difficult to measure achieving useful results at a regional or global level is but a recent accomplishment G Mapping and the Citizen Sensor Giles Foody,Linda See,Steffen Fritz,Peter Mooney,Ana-Maria Olteanu-Raimond,Cidália Costa Fonte,Vyron Antoniou,2017-09-11 Maps are a fundamental resource in a diverse array of applications ranging from everyday activities such as route planning through the legal demarcation of space to scientific studies such as those seeking to understand biodiversity and inform the design of nature reserves for species conservation For a map to have value it should provide an accurate and timely representation of the phenomenon depicted and this can be a challenge in a dynamic world Fortunately mapping activities have benefitted greatly from recent advances in geoinformation technologies Satellite remote sensing for example now offers unparalleled data acquisition and authoritative mapping agencies have developed systems for the routine production of maps in accordance with strict standards Until recently much mapping activity was in the exclusive realm of authoritative agencies but technological development has also allowed the rise of the amateur mapping community The proliferation of inexpensive and highly mobile and location aware devices together with Web 2 0 technology have fostered the emergence of the citizen as a source of data Mapping presently benefits from vast amounts of spatial data as well as people able to provide observations of geographic phenomena which can inform map production revision and evaluation The great potential of these developments is however often limited by concerns The latter span issues from the nature of the citizens through the way data are collected and shared to the quality and trustworthiness of the data This book reports on some of the key issues connected with the use of citizen sensors in mapping It arises from a European Co operation in Science and Technology COST Action which explored issues linked to topics ranging from citizen motivation data acquisition data quality and the use of citizen derived data in the production of maps that rival and sometimes surpass maps arising from authoritative agencies Multinationals, Poverty Alleviation and UK Aid Jo-Anna Russon,2023-10-12 This book analyses the complex relationship between the private sector UK official development assistance ODA and poverty alleviation in sub Saharan Africa In recent years the private sector has occupied an increasingly prominent position within UK ODA bringing a range of opportunities and conflicting interests This book first traces the trajectory of private sector engagement in ODA before setting out the theoretical and analytical framework for analysing the mutual prosperity agenda in UK ODA the notion that ODA can benefit both donor and beneficiary country interests By extending corporate social responsibility theory in the emerging field of business and development studies to ODA the book critiques the underlying assumptions contained within UK ODA multinational corporation partnerships With reference to three case studies GlaxoSmithKline plc Barclays plc and Anheuser Busch InBev formerly SABMiller the book identifies where the activities of multinational corporations support and or undermine ODA goals and the implications for the UK's mutual prosperity agenda. Overall the book reflects a pragmatic approach to maximising the role of private sector actors in ODA whilst also drawing attention to the opportunities and challenges in the mutual prosperity agenda. The book will be of interest to researchers from business management, development studies and political science as well as to practitioners with an interest in the role of the private sector in ODA.

Geographers Hayden Lorimer, Charles W. J. Withers, 2016-09-22. Geographers: Biobibliographical Studies Volume 35 includes seven essays discussing the contribution made to geography by eleven geographers. The subjects include three British figures: Francis Rennell Rodd (1895-1978) expert on the Sahara; David Harris (1930-2013) a geographer with archaeological interests; and William Gordon East (historical geographer, 1902-1998). A Spanish urban scholar, Enric Martin (1928-2012), Mauricio de Almeida Abreu (1948-2011) a Brazilian urban and historical geographer, and two essays on French geographers: one on Jacques Levainville (1869-1932) the other an innovative prosopographical essay on five French authors involved in the monumental Vidalian Geographie Universelle of the early 20th century. In these studies geography's international dimensions are illuminated and the subject's vibrant history shown to be the result of committed endeavours in the field, in the classroom and in print.

The Japanese Buddhist World Map D. Max Moerman, 2021-12-31. From the fourteenth through the nineteenth centuries Japanese monks created hundreds of maps to construct and locate their place in a Buddhist world. This expansively illustrated volume is the first to explore the largely unknown archive of Japanese Buddhist world maps and analyze their production, reproduction and reception. In examining these fascinating sources of visual and material culture, author D. Max Moerman argues for an alternative history of Japanese Buddhism, one that compels us to recognize the role of the Buddhist geographic imaginary in a culture that encompassed multiple cartographic and cosmological world views. The contents and contexts of Japanese Buddhist world maps reveal the ambivalent and shifting position of Japan in the Buddhist world, its encounter and negotiation with foreign ideas and technologies, and the possibilities for a global history of Buddhism and science. Moerman's visual and intellectual history traces the multiple trajectories of Japanese Buddhist world maps, beginning with the earliest extant Japanese map of the world, a painting by a fourteenth-century Japanese monk charting the cosmology and geography of India and Central Asia based on an account written by a seventh-century Chinese pilgrim monk. He goes on to discuss the cartographic inclusion and marginal position of Japan, the culture of the copy and the power of replication in Japanese Buddhism, and the transcultural processes of engagement and response to new visions of the world produced by Iberian Christians, Chinese Buddhists, and the Japanese maritime trade. Later chapters explore the transformations in the media and messages of Buddhist cartography in the age of print culture and in intellectual debates during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries over cosmology and epistemology and the polemics of Buddhist science. The Japanese Buddhist World Map offers a wholly innovative picture of Japanese Buddhism that acknowledges the possibility of multiple and heterogeneous modernities and alternative visions of Japan and the world

Mapping Antarctica Robert Clancy, John Manning, Henk Brolsma, 2013-12-02 Everyone likes maps and maps are always used to illustrate the many books on the Antarctic Here the focus is reversed with contemporary maps telling the story one that should be attractive to the widest audience as it is a unique approach complimenting what has gone before and providing something different for all interested in Antarctica

Mapping and Politics in the Digital Age Pol Bargaúes-Pedreny, David Chandler, Elena Simon, 2018-11-06 Throughout history maps have been a powerful tool in the constitutive imaginary of governments seeking to define or contest the limits of their political reach Today new digital technologies have become central to mapping as a way of formulating alternative political visions Mapping can also help marginalised communities to construct speculative designs using participatory practices Mapping and Politics in the Digital Age explores how the development of new digital technologies and mapping practices are transforming global politics power and cooperation The book brings together authors from across political and social theory geography media studies and anthropology to explore mapping and politics across three sections Contestations introduces the reader to contemporary developments within mapping and explores the politics of mapping as a form of knowledge and contestation Governance analyses mapping as a set of institutional practices providing key methodological frames for understanding global governance in the realms of urban politics refugee control health crises and humanitarian interventions and new techniques of biometric regulation and autonomic computation Imaginaries provides examples of future oriented analytical frameworks highlighting the transformation of mapping in an age of digital technologies of control and regulation In a world conceived as without borders and fixed relations new forms of mapping stress the need to rethink assumptions of power and knowledge This book provides a sophisticated and nuanced analysis of the role of mapping in contemporary global governance and will be of interest to students and researchers working within politics geography sociology media and digital culture and technology The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY ND 4.0 license
