Mapuche Ethnic Race Of Chile:

Race and the Chilean Miracle Patricia Lynne Richards, 2013-06-28 The economic reforms imposed by Augusto Pinochet's regime 1973-1990 are often credited with transforming Chile into a global economy and setting the stage for a peaceful transition to democracy individual liberty and the recognition of cultural diversity The famed economist Milton Friedman would later describe the transition as the Miracle of Chile Yet as Patricia Richards reveals beneath this veneer of progress lies a reality of social conflict and inequity that has been perpetuated by many of the same neoliberal programs In Race and the Chilean Miracle Richards examines conflicts between Mapuche indigenous people and state and private actors over natural resources territorial claims and collective rights in the Araucanía region Through ground level fieldwork extensive interviews with local Mapuche and Chileans and analysis of contemporary race and governance theory Richards exposes the ways that local regional and transnational realities are shaped by systemic racism in the context of neoliberal multiculturalism Richards demonstrates how state programs and policies run counter to Mapuche claims for autonomy and cultural recognition The Mapuche whose ancestral lands have been appropriated for timber and farming have been branded as terrorists for their activism and sometimes violent responses to state and private sector interventions Through their interviews many Mapuche cite the perpetuation of colonialism under the guise of development projects multicultural policies and assimilationist narratives Many Chilean locals and political elites see the continued defiance of the Mapuche in their tenacious connection to the land resistance to integration and insistence on their rights as a people These diametrically opposed worldviews form the basis of the racial dichotomy that continues to pervade Chilean society In her study Richards traces systemic racism that follows both a top down path global state and regional as well as a bottom up one local agencies and actors detailing their historic roots Richards also describes potential positive outcomes in the form of intercultural coalitions or indigenous autonomy Her compelling analysis offers new perspectives on indigenous rights race and neoliberal multiculturalism in Latin America and globally

Genocide, Ethnonationalism, and the United Nations Hannibal Travis, 2013-01-17 Genocide Ethnonationalism and the United Nations examines a series of related crises in human civilization growing out of conflicts between powerful states or empires and indigenous or stateless peoples This is the first book to attempt to explore the causes of genocide and other mass killing by a detailed exploration of UN archives covering the period spanning from 1945 through 2011 Hannibal Travis argues that large states and empires disproportionately committed or facilitated genocide and other mass killings between 1945 and 2011 His research incorporates data concerning factors linked to the scale of mass killing and recent findings in human rights political science and legal theory Turning to potential solutions he argues that the concept of genocide imagines a future system of global governance under which the nation state itself is made subject to law The United Nations however has deflected the possibility of such a cosmopolitical law It selectively condemns genocide and has established an institutional structure that denies most peoples subjected to genocide of a realistic possibility of global justice lacks a robust international criminal tribunal or UN army and even encourages security cooperation among states that have proven to be destructive of peoples in the past Questions raised include What have been the causes of mass killing during the period since the United Nations Charter entered into force in 1945 How does mass killing spread across international borders and what is the role of resource wealth the arms trade and external interference in this process Have the United Nations or the International Criminal Court faced up to the problem of genocide and other forms of mass killing as is their mandate The ethics and challenges of studying the genetics of marginalized populations Arslan A. Zaidi,Keolu Fox,Katrina Claw,Tina Lasisi ,2023-09-25 Indigenous Sacraments Oriol Ambrogio Gali,2024-12-04 Indigenous Sacraments provides the first study of Indigenous perceptions of the Christian sacraments at the fringes of colonial Spanish America particularly in the missions established by the Jesuits in northwestern Mexico central southern Chile and the Gran Chaco After Jesuit missionaries arrived in these regions between the end of the sixteenth and the early seventeenth centuries their sacraments came to control every rite of passage from birth to reaching adulthood to the formation of new families to death Through the administration of the sacraments missionaries intended to replace extant Indigenous habits and beliefs with Christian values The disruptions triggered by such processes raised multiple local reactions from initial curiosity and incomprehension to rejection partial acceptance and ritual imitation Locals debated the newly introduced rituals and both violently rejected them and developed their own versions becoming active participants in the sacraments diffusion Oriol Ambrogio Gali draws on a range of diverse sources to explore the changing attitudes toward the sacraments and to highlight the cultural and religious evolution of the Indigenous groups living at the fringes of Spanish America By exploring local perceptions of the Christian sacraments Ambrogio Gali shows that Indigenous peoples were far from static recipients of Christianity in the Americas
