Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy Patrick M. Jenlink, 2014-03-18 What makes a moral person moral Who decides what morality means What makes leadership practice moral In today's schools what stands as moral leadership These are questions that reflect the complexity integral to the calculus of human morality especially in a world that is defined daily by its variant meanings of morality its acts of immorality The school as an educational setting is or should be a decidedly moral center of the society it is the natural intersect between the family and the multi dimensional nature of public life Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy addresses these questions situating the reader in a conversation that examines the meaning and nature of moral leadership through the lens of moral literacy and the dispositional aims of moral leadership in educational settings The contributing authors extend an argument that the work of leader educators and practitioners alike must continuously be re articulated around the dispositional aims aligned with a moral democratic education Educators must be concerned with developing the moral intellectual and aesthetic dimensions of the educational leader as a moral person

Teacher Identity and the Struggle for Recognition Patrick M. Jenlink, 2014-04-09 Teacher identity is shaped by recognition or its absence often by misrecognition of others Recognition as a teacher or the strong and complex identification with one's professional culture and community is necessary for a positive sense of self Increasingly teachers are entering educational settings where difference connotes not equal better worse or having more less power over resources Differences between discourses of identity are braided at many points with a discourse of racism both interpersonal and structural Teacher Identity and the Struggle for Recognition examines the nature of identity and recognition as social cultural and political constructs In particular the contributing authors to the book present discussions of the professional work necessary in teacher preparation programs concerned with preparing teachers for the complexities of teaching in schools that mirror an increasingly diverse society Importantly the authors illuminate many of the often problematic structures of schooling and the cultural politics that work to define one's identity drawing into specific relief the nature of the struggle for recognition that all face who choose to enter teaching as a profession
