

MY TROPIC ISLE

How quaint seems the demand for details of life on this Isle of Scent and Silence Lolling in shade and quietude was I guilty of indiscretion when I babbled of my serene affairs and is the penalty so soon enforced Can the record of such a narrow compressed existence be anything but dull Can one who is indifferent to the decrees of constituted society who is aloof from popular prejudices who cares not for the gaieties of the crowd or the vagaries of fashion who does not dance or sing or drink to toasts or habitually make any loud noise or play cards or billiards or attend garden parties who has no political ambitions who is not a painter or a musician or a man of science whose palate is as averse from ardent spirits as from physic who is denied the all redeeming vice of teetotalism who cannot smoke even a pipe of peace who is a casual a nonentity a scout on the van of civilisation dallying with the universal enemy time can such a one so forlorn of popular attributes so weak and watery in his tastes have aught to recite harmonious to the ear of the world Yet since my life and in the use of the possessive pronoun here and elsewhere let it signify also the life of my life partner is beyond the range of ordinary experience since it is immune from the ferments which seethe and muddle the lives of the many I am assured that a familiar record will not be deemed egotistical I am scolded because I did not confess with greater zeal I am bidden to my pen again My Tropic Isle
