Promoting Reading for Pleasure in the Primary School Michael Lockwood, 2008-06-24 Winner of the UKLA Author Award 2009 Lockwood has written a useful supportive book which will help teachers and librarians. He describes the background and summarises the research and then proposes thoroughly practical programmes. Carousel Michael Lockwood has produced an excellent practical overview and analysis of what works in the primary school to promote reading for pleasure. Lockwood's work is grounded and valuable to those who need it most teachers in the classroom working hard to engender a love of reading English Drama Media This book is first class It puts the matter very clearly and succinctly and presents a great deal of evidence to support the argument that pleasure is not a frivolous extra but the very heart and essence of what reading is about It also gives readers plenty of ideas for carrying the principle into the classroom and for justifying it This is an excellent piece of work which I hope will find a place on every staffroom bookshelf Philip Pullman English primary school children are less likely to read for pleasure than their counterparts in many other countries This practical and focused book discusses the background to this situation and looks at how government initiatives have tried to address it Drawing on the author's own research project in order to identify good practice in promoting reading for enjoyment the book presents specific activities which teachers can use to develop their own whole school and classroom practice enabling them to put the fun back into reading Each chapter features case study material and provides examples of planning from schools that have successfully created thriving reading cultures through schemes such as reading assemblies book clubs library loyalty cards school book evenings and quizzes There is also an extensive annotated list of print and internet based resources Topics covered include Becoming a reading for pleasure school Promoting a love of reading in the early years Developing reading enjoyment in the later primary years Getting boys reading Promoting Reading for Pleasure in the Primary School is written for all those involved in education who would like to see as many children as possible develop a love of reading It will be particularly relevant for primary teachers teaching assistants trainee teachers advisers and consultants as well as teacher educators and researchers

Writing Every Day Kellie Buis, Kat Mototsune, 2004 Many of today's schools struggle with large class sizes a continually evolving curriculum and a wide diversity in the ability and background of their students How best to build an effective literacy community in this constantly changing environment is an increasingly difficult challenge for teachers new and experienced alike In Writing Every Day Kellie Buis demonstrates that sharing stories is a fun and engaging way to motivate children and encourage cooperative learning in K-8 classrooms It proposes students writing letters every day as an efficient effective engaging and fun teaching strategy for organizing language instruction Children's personal stories become the catalyst for language experiences that involve reading writing and all forms of communication Teachers will find novel ways to bridge the gap between the important principles of sharing stories and practical ideas on how these understandings can be translated into classroom practice empower students to deepen and enrich their language skills by sharing their ideas feelings and experiences show students how to begin to make sense of themselves each other and the world create a strong partnership between school and home give children the ability to express themselves and to be heard by others in their community Student samples throughout the book illustrate the power of using their own life experiences to engage children in authentic reading and writing Writing daily letters gives children a stronger voice and engenders feelings of self worth self respect and competence This strategy reaps benefits beyond the language arts curriculum and helps students make connections and recognize patterns in
