Paul Nash Aerial Creatures:

Paul Nash Charles Hall, Paul Nash, 1996 Aerial Creatures was Paul Nash's own title for a body of work produced when he was an official war artist for the RAF and the Ministry of Information during the Second World War. Aerial Creatures Imperial War Museum (Great Britain), Imperial War Museum. London, 1996

Paul Nash Paul Nash, 2000 This is a critical edition of the art writings of the painter Paul Nash 1889-1946. Alongside the very different Wyndham Lewis, Nash was the only major British artist of his generation who was also a regular critic of and essayist on art. He knew and read the leading critics of his day and evolved a distinctive position in relation to them. His relationship to British modernism and the mutual stimulus of art and criticism, the opening up of his criticism and that of others to poetic and literary influences under the influence of Surrealism, is discussed by Andrew Causey. Nash's writings span the years 1919 to 1946, with the majority dating from the 1930s; they were framed by his profession of painting and his activities as an art teacher, a product designer, and his involvement as organiser and polemicist in the art world. All of these helped to form the individuality of his writing.

Paul Nash, 1996 Art, Propaganda and Aerial Warfare in Britain during the Second World War Rebecca Searle, 2020-07-23 The War Artists Advisory Committee (WAAC) were responsible for the production of some of the most iconic images of the Second World War. Despite its rich historical value, this collection has been poorly utilised by historians and hasn't been subjected to the levels of analysis afforded to other forms of wartime culture. This innovative study addresses this gap by bringing official war art into dialogue with the social, economic and military histories of the Second World War. Rebecca Searle explores the tensions between the documentarist and propagandistic roles of the WAAC in their representation of aerial warfare in the battle for production: the Battle of Britain, the Blitz, and the bombing of Germany. Her analyses demonstrate that whilst there was a strong correlation between war art and propaganda, the WAAC depicted many aspects of experience that were absent from wartime propaganda, such as class divisions within the services, gendered hierarchies within industries, civilian death, and the true nature of the bombing of Germany. In addition, she shows that propagandistic constructions were not entirely separate from lived experience but reflected experience and shaped the way that individuals made sense of the war. Accessibly written, highly illustrated and packed with valuable examples of the use of war art as historical source, this book will enhance our understanding of the social and cultural history of Britain during the Second World War.

Shadow Sites Kitty Hauser, 2007-03-29 At certain times of the day, at sunrise and sunset, the outlines of prehistoric fields, barrows and hill forts in the British landscape may be thrown into relief. Such shadow sites, best seen from above and captured by an airborne camera, are both examples of and metaphors for a particular way of seeing the landscape. At a time of rapid modernisation and urbanisation in mid-twentieth-century Britain, an archaeological vision of the British landscape reassured and enchanted a number of writers, artists, photographers and film makers. From John Piper, Eric Ravilious and Shell guide books to photographs of bomb damage, aerial archaeology and The Wizard of Oz, Kitty Hauser delves into evocative interpretations of the landscape and looks at the affinities between photography as a medium to capture traces of the past as well as their absence

CRASH! Randy Malamud, 2024-12-12 CRASH explores the fascinating revealing and surprising cultural impact of plane crashes across art literature music media and creative nonfiction Plane crashes are covered extensively but they are not analyzed very deeply beyond rote media reports and forensic accident investigations This is despite the voluminous diverse and fascinating cultural materials poems and novels songs films art TV series and on and on that emerge in the wake of aviation disasters Randy Malamud reanimates these tragic events and identifies how they persist and resonate through our culture more than we might have imagined and in intricately far reaching ways A unique and extraordinarily wide ranging cultural examination CRASH takes the reader on a journey that includes reflections on flight phobia themes of crash survival with asides on Lord of the Flies The Little Prince and Ernest Hemingway's two day two crash adventure the existentialism of pilots last words the day the music died deep dives into modernist plane wreck paintings kamikaze pilots and their Zen death poems plane crashes before planes race crash and gender and the cultural aftermath of 9 11 Ultimately Malamud shows that crashes do not bring about complete and total destruction we accomplish some degree of restoration by shoring fragments against the ruins The plane is dead long live the plane

The Landscape Vision of Paul Nash Roger Cardinal, 2013-02-15 Paul Nash 1889 1946 has long been admired as one of the outstanding English landscape painters of this century Nash has a deep affinity for such favourite sites in Southern England as the rolling downland near Swanage the gaunt coastline at Dymchurch the enigmatic stone circles at Avebury and the twin hills in Oxfordshire known as the Wittenham Clumps which became his ultimate Place and the focal symbol of his art In this book Roger Cardinal surveys the full range of Nash's work from the ravaged Flanders landscapes of World War One to the spectacular aerial battles of World War Two and the meditative late oils his final masterpieces

Paul Nash Andrew Causey, 1980

Aereality William Fox, 2009-05-01 William Fox's writing for the last several years has been focused on how we construct aerial views either physically by flying or in our imaginations In Aereality he flies over earthworks in Nevada and Utah soars through the world's largest open pit mine and surveys Los Angeles circumnavigating large swaths of true American urban sprawl On the East Coast he examines the elevated art of the Hudson River Valley and New York City And finally in Australia Fox examines the history and current practice of both Euro Australian and Aboriginal aerial views and searches for the cognitive roots of our aerial imagination Accompanying Fox throughout his travels is a rolling cast of enlightened fliers geographers museum curators landscape photographers anthropologists and artists He traverses the sky in prop planes helicopters and hot air balloons all with the ultimate goal of knowing and experiencing the earth from the air
