La cocinanza comedida Estrella de los Ríos,2002 Mapping the Country of Regions Nancy P. Appelbaum,2016-05-23 The nineteenth century was an era of breathtakingly ambitious geographic expeditions across the Americas The seminal Chorographic Commission of Colombia which began in 1850 and lasted about a decade was one of Latin America's most extensive The commission's mandate was to define and map the young republic and its resources with an eye toward modernization In this history of the commission Nancy P Appelbaum focuses on the geographers fieldwork practices and visual production as the men traversed the mountains savannahs and forests of more than thirty provinces in order to delineate the country's territorial and racial composition Their assumptions and methods Appelbaum argues contributed to a long lasting national imaginary What jumps out of the commission's array of reports maps sketches and paintings is a portentous tension between the marked differences that appeared before the eyes of the geographers in the field and the visions of sameness to which they aspired The commissioners and their patrons believed that a prosperous republic required a unified and racially homogeneous population but the commission's maps and images paradoxically emphasized diversity and helped create a country of regions By privileging the whiter inhabitants of the cool Andean highlands over those of the boiling tropical lowlands the commission left a lasting but problematic legacy for today's Colombians La inmigración alemana al Estado Soberano de Santander en el siglo XIX Horacio Rodríguez Plata,1968 Salt and the Colombian State Joshua M. Rosenthal,2014-08-23 In republican Colombia salt became an important source of revenue not just to individuals but to the state which levied taxes on it and in some cases controlled and profited from its production The salt trade consistently accounted for roughly 10 percent of government income In the town of La Salina de Chita in Boyacá province thermal springs offered vast amounts of salt and its procurement and distribution was placed under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Finance Focusing his study on La Salina Joshua M Rosenthal presents a fascinating glimpse into the workings of the early Colombian state its institutions and their interactions with local citizens during this formative period Although historians have cited the state's weakness and in many cases its absence in local affairs Rosenthal counters these assumptions by documenting the primary role the state held in administering contracts inspections land rights labor and trade in La Salina contending that this was not an isolated incident He also uncovers the frequent interaction between the state and local residents who used the state's liberal rhetoric to gain personal economic advantage Seen through the lens of the administration of La Salina's saltworks Rosenthal provides a firsthand account of the role of local institutions and fiscal management in the larger process of state building His study offers new perspectives on the complex network of republican Colombia's political culture and its involvement in provincial life across the nation Civilization and Violence Cristina Rojas, 2002
