My Life with the Headhunters Wyn Sargent, 1976      Everyday Life Among the Head-hunters Dorothy Cator, 1905

In the Land of the Head-hunters Edward S. Curtis, 1915 This semi documentary combines many accurate representations of aspects of Kwakwaka wakw culture art and technology from the era in which it was written with a melodramatic plot based on practices that either dated from long before the first contact of the Kwakwaka wakw with people of European descent or were entirely fictional Curtis appears never to have specifically presented the book as a documentary but he also never specifically called it a work of fiction      With the Dyaks of Borneo: A Tale of the Head Hunters F. S.

Brereton, 2023-10-22 In With the Dyaks of Borneo A Tale of the Head Hunters F S Brereton immerses readers in a vibrant narrative set against the lush backdrop of 19th century Borneo The novel explores the culture and traditions of the Dyak people including their infamous headhunting practices through the lens of adventure fiction Brereton s literary style is characterized by rich descriptions and vivid imagery that bring the tropical landscape and its inhabitants to life while his narrative is steeped in the colonial context of the time revealing both the fascination and dread of European encounters with indigenous societies F S Brereton a British author and soldier was deeply influenced by his experiences in the British Empire particularly his time in Southeast Asia His writings often reflect a blend of adventure exploration and a fascination with indigenous cultures which drove him to represent the Dyaks authentically even within the constraints of imperial narratives Brereton s extensive travel and knowledge of the region allowed him to shape a compelling portrayal of its peoples and customs With the Dyaks of Borneo is not only a thrilling adventure tale but also a thought provoking exploration of cultural encounters I highly recommend this book to readers interested in historical fiction colonial literature or those seeking to understand the complexities of cross cultural interactions in the era of imperialism      With Pythons & Head-Hunters in

The Head Hunters of Northern Luzon Cornélis De Witt Willcox, 2019-11-25 In The Head Hunters of Northern Luzon Cornélis De Witt Willcox traverses the complex tapestry of the Igorot tribes diving deep into their intricate social structures cultural practices and the historical context of head hunting Combining ethnographic detail with vivid narrative style Willcox weaves a compelling account that captures the essence of a society shaped by fierce traditions and colonial influences His writing transcends mere documentation aiming instead to foster a deep understanding of the indigenous peoples worldviews amid the encroaching modernity of the early 20th century Cornélis De Witt Willcox was an American anthropologist and historian whose field studies in the Philippines were influenced by his commitment to preserving the voices of marginalized cultures during a time of significant transformation His profound respect for the Igorot peoples and their customs is evident in his meticulous research and empathetic portrayal of their realities a reflection of his broader academic endeavors in ethnology and cross cultural analyses This work is highly recommended for readers interested in anthropology post colonial studies and the cultural dynamics of Southeast Asia Willcox s vivid storytelling and insightful observations encourage a greater appreciation of the complexities inherent in indigenous cultures making it an essential read for anyone seeking to understand the multifaceted narratives that define human history

Women of Spirit Katherine Martin, 2010-10-06 These stories reveal the way the world has always been made better by individuals who courageously follow their heart s inner wisdom At a moment in history when the tide of events seems determined by faceless governments and corporations we need these examples of individual action more than ever

Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice Cara Krmpotich, Alice Stevenson, 2024-07-22 There is a common misconception that collections management in museums is a set of rote procedures or technical practices that follow universal standards of best practice This volume recognises collections management as a political critical and social project involving considerable intellectual labour that often goes unacknowledged within institutions and in the fields of museum and heritage studies Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice brings into focus the knowledges value systems ethics and workplace pragmatics that are foundational for this work Rather than engaging solely with cultural modifications such as Indigenous care practices the book presents local knowledge of place and material which is relevant to how collections are managed and cared for worldwide Through discussion of varied collection types management activities and professional roles contributors develop a contextualised reflexive practice for how core collections management standards are conceptualised negotiated and enacted Chapters span national museums in Brazil and Uganda to community led heritage work in Malaysia and Canada they explore complexities of numbering digitisation and description alongside the realities of climate change global pandemics and natural disasters The book offers a new definition of collections management travelling from what is done to care for collections to what is done to care for collections and their users Rather than use being an end goal it emerges as a starting point to rethink collections work

Cannibals and Head-hunters Charles H. Watson,1926      They Lie, We Lie Peter Metcalf,2003-09-02 They Lie We Lie is an attempt by an experienced fieldworker to engage recent critiques in ethnography that is the writing of culture made both from within anthropology and from such disciplines as cultural studies and post colonial theory This is necessary because there has been a polarization within anthropology between those who react dismissively to what Marshall Sahlins calls afterology and those who find the critiques so crippling as to make it hard to get on with anthropology at all Metcalf bridges this divide by analyzing the contradictions of fieldwork in connection with a particular informant a formidable old lady who tried for twenty years to control what he would and would not learn At each stage the author draws out the general implications of his predicament by making comparisons to the most famous of all fieldwork relationships that between Victor Turner and Muchona The result is an account that is accessible to those unfamiliar with the current critiques of ethnography and helpful to those who are only too familiar to them His discussion shows not how to evade the critiques but how in fact anthropologists have coped with the existential dilemmas of fieldwork

Divine Rite of Kings Clyde R. Forsberg Jr.,2016-02-29 Divine Rite of Kings Land Race Same Sex and Empire in Mormonism and the Esoteric Tradition is a social historical political analysis of the religion of the Latter day Saints as deeply indebted to a variety of esoteric systems of belief It argues that the present campaign against gay marriage and other homophobic policies of the American religion targeting the LGBTQ community and indeed children of same sex parents are connected to erstwhile racial doctrines and practices which excluded persons from full fellowship on the basis of race alone Africans the supposed offspring of Cain and Canaan and thus cursed Narrow heterosexist notions of sexual purity merely replaced Anglo Saxon supremacist notions of racial purity in the imperial and the millennial understanding of Mormonism The new heterosexism this book suggests can be viewed as a form of boundary maintenance better suited to an emergent international church and world religion ironically which continues to make inroads in parts of Asia where its social conservatism and indeed virulent attacks against the gay and lesbian lifestyle continue to attract followers
