My Perversion Is The Belief In True Love:

Ellen Cantor - my perversion is the belief in true love Ellen Cantor, Matthew Yokobosky, Kunsthalle Wien, 1998 The New York artist Ellen Cantor uses stereotypical images of beauty and violence as transmitted by the media along with personal images In her work she enters the world of carefully cultivated regulations requirements and prohibitions and with narrative videos and photomontages severely disturbs our pre conditioned conception of oppositions between good and bad sex and love art and trash In her videos Cantor juxtaposes shots of sex and violence as a means to integrate the obscenity of realism and to fill in the ellipses created in commercial film She utilizes videotape re dubbing as a means for artistic creation and by negotiating between the private experience of creating videotapes and presenting those works in a public forum Cantor initiates an open sexual dialogue with the viewer Her videotapes are an exploration of the boundaries between the imagined and the real between the erotic and the pornographic between the symbolic and the actual between the public and the private all of which are central to the debate concerning the exhibition of nudity and sexuality within the art world

Laura Warholic Alexander Theroux, 2007-12-21 A brilliant satire from one of the great novelists of his time In his first novel in nearly twenty years Alexander Theroux National Book Award Nominee returns with a compendious satire a bold and inquisitorial circuit breaking examination of love and hate of rejection and forgiveness of trust and romantic disappointment of the terrors of contemporary life Eugene Eyestones an erudite sex columnist for a Boston cultural magazine becomes enmeshed in the messy life of a would be artist named Laura Warholic who repulsing and fascinating him at the same time becomes a mirror in which he not only sees himself but through which he is forced to face his own demons Not only does she inadvertently supply him with material for his columns but she exemplifies all that Eugene considers wrong with contemporary America of which the publishing profession and its recognizable denizens serves as a microcosm a garish and dunce filled Babylon that Theroux scorches with inventive and relentless satire Nostalgic for the old days and old manners a way of life lost to grace loving from afar a mysterious beauty named Rapunzel Wisht Eugene fights against the rising tide of stupidity focusing on Laura in the hope that by saving her he can validate his ethical beliefs But feckless Laura and the colorful but bizarre cast of characters surrounding Eugene brilliant bigots nihilists Generation X slackers and zanies of all sexual persuasion threaten to pull him under leading to the novel's unforgettable conclusion a climax of betrayal and redemption of Dostoevskyan power
