

MY SISTER LOOKS LIKE A PEAR

DOUGLAS ANDERSON

Douglas Anderson talks about his recipes for sparking student writing (from the chapter "not to teach, to awaken"):

"If I started out, for instance, by playing some music and saying, 'Just write about anything you feel like,' that's precisely what I'd get back—a splatter of trite abstractions.

"We need a certain number of arbitrary, somewhat rigid vessels to pour our feelings into. And evoking poetry means, to me, provoking people into discovering something they did not know, rather than allowing them to settle for what they do know.

"I've been obliged by circumstance to develop methods which can inspire students to write (a) communally, and (b) in five days or less. That's an exquisite challenge, and it's a valid way to write. Valid because (a) each of us is—in spite of the incessant talk about 'alienation'—part of a very large community. I believe each of us ought to be minimally responsible for sharing our creations with others, and for making our creations minimally intelligible to others. As for (b), sometimes short-term pressure yields better results than long-term discourse.

"Of course, most serious writing is not done communally; it is done solitarily. And it more often takes five years or more than it does five days or less. So the very most I've been able to do is plant a few time bombs and hope they eventually explode; or give a push, and sometimes a well-placed kick, to people who are already well along the way; or to affirm creative talent wherever it surfaces, whether or not it happens to be writing talent.

"All my classroom techniques are triggers or seeds. And the writing itself should testify to that. Most of what I coaxed out of the students is from that original, upswelling birthquake of raw energy—unlike those pseudoprofessional, at times heavily coached pieces of writing which win contests."

Federal Register, 1976-06 Pretty Takes Practice Charla Muller, 2014-08-05 Charla Muller's first book 365 Nights was called entertaining Albuquerque Journal surprising and remarkable The Independent London. It also launched her into the public eye and brought her to a moment of painful realization. For an average working mom like Charla, going on a book tour was both intimidating and exciting. It also turned out to be horrifying. When she saw herself on a screen in glorious unforgiving HD, it magnified all her flaws, prompted comments from unadoring fans, and forced her to reevaluate her lack of exercise regimen. But Charla was jolted into action and used that cringe-inducing close-up as a wake-up call. After shedding a few tears over how she'd let herself go and over the five-year-old discount sweater she wore on Oprah, she set out on a strange, hilarious, and poignant journey that tapped into and tested her values, her beliefs about beauty, her self-image, and of course her relationship with her mother. In this lively, funny, moving account, a Southern woman shares stories she swore she'd never tell and ultimately offers some unexpected and universal insight about how pretty takes practice. Every Other Sunday, 1897 Medical Life Mei De, 2019-11-19 Medical Life Taste of Home Diabetes Cookbook Taste of Home, 2024-11-05 Looking to eat healthier?
