conceive of urban land as a blank slate to be wiped clean for development Instead Gutman shows how over and over women turned private houses in Oakland into orphanages kindergartens settlement houses and day care centers and in the process built the charitable landscape a network of places that was critical for the betterment of children families and public life The industrial landscape of Oakland riddled with the effects of social inequalities and racial prejudices is not a neutral backdrop in Gutman s story but an active player Spanning one hundred years of history A City for Children provides a compelling model for building urban institutions and demonstrates that children women charity and incremental construction renovations alterations additions and repurposed structures are central to the understanding of modern cities The Transatlantic Kindergarten Ann Taylor Allen,2017 The kindergarten which offered an innovative approach to early childhood education was invented in the German speaking world and arrived in the United States along with German political exiles in the 1850s In both the United States and Germany activist women worked to develop and promote this new form of education Over the course of three generations they created one of the most successful transnational women s movements of the nineteenth century In this book Ann Taylor Allen presents the first transnational history of the kindergarten as it developed in both Germany and America between 1840 and 1919 The Garden ,1900 My garden of memory : an autobiography Kate Douglas Smith Wiggin,
