Can These Dry Bones Live? Frances M. Young, 2010-09-01 Frances Young who won high critical acclaim for her deeply committed book Sacrifice and the Death of Christ seeks to convey the excitement of the theological quest the excitement of studying the Bible the excitement of wrestling with what might seem outmoded and irrelevant ways of thinking and discovering that there is a chiming with experience She offers a study of atonement as a demonstration of the possibilities It stems from a deep preoccupation with suffering and its meaning the outstretched arms of the crucified Christ the image of the woman in travail But this suffering and pain is the prelude to new birth to vision and hope to the feast of the kingdom New birth and new creation she sees lie at the heart of the Christian message and our own growth depends on the painful but rewarding labor of appropriating the Bible and our Christian heritage through critical reflection Becoming Adult, Becoming Christian James W. Fowler, 1999-12-02 In this updated reissue of his 1984 classic James Fowler applies his groundbreaking research on the development of faith to Christianity In his revised first chapter Fowler locates his approach to the study of human and faith development in relation to the contemporary conversation about identity and selfhood in postmodernity Fowler invites readers to explore what it means to find and claim vocation a purpose for one's life that is part of the purposes of God Reclaiming covenant and vocation as ideals for responsible mature Christian selfhood Fowler shows how a dynamic understanding of what vocation involves can both inform and transform lives conversations is Potok's intense interest in the turmoil between Jewish culture, religion, and tradition and what he calls Western secular humanism. As he discusses his work, he continually includes broader issues such as the state of Jewish literature and art, pointing out with pride and enthusiasm his belief that Jewish culture in the twentieth century has finally begun to have a significant role in producing and shaping the world's art and literature. Whether discussing the finer details of Talmudic textual analysis or his period of chaplaincy during the Korean War, Potok is articulate and philosophical, bringing deep consideration into what may seem small subjects. Although his novels and histories take place primarily in the recent past, the Chaim Potok that emerges from this collection is a writer deeply rooted in the tensions of the present. One of America's most popular Jewish writers, Chaim Potok (b. 1929) is the author of such novels as The Chosen (1967), The Promise (1969), The Book of Lights (1981), and Davita's Harp (1985). Each of his novels explores the tension between tradition and modernity and the clash between Jewish culture and contemporary Western civilization, which he calls core to core culture confrontation. Although primarily known as a novelist, Potok is an ordained Conservative rabbi and a world-class Judaic scholar who has also published children's books, theological discourses, biographies, and histories. Conversations with Chaim Potok presents interviews ranging from 1976 to 1999. Potok discusses the broad range of his writing and the deep influence of non-Jewish novels, in particular Evelyn Waugh's Brideshead Revisited and James Joyce's Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, on his work. Interviews bear witness to Potok's many other influences: Orthodox Jewish doctrine, Freudian psychoanalytical theory, Picasso's Guernica, and Jewish kabbalah mysticism. Though labeled an American Jewish writer, Potok argues that Flannery O'Connor should then be called an American Catholic writer and John Updike an American Protestant writer. In his mind, editor Daniel Walden writes just as Faulkner was a writer focused on a particular place, Oxford, Mississippi, so Potok's territory was a small section of New York City. Potok often explores conflict in his writings and in his interviews. Strict Jewish teachings deem fiction an artifice and therefore unnecessary, yet since the age of sixteen, Potok has been driven to write novels. At the root of all of these conversations is Potok's intense interest in the turmoil between Jewish culture, religion, and tradition and what he calls Western secular humanism. As he discusses his work, he continually includes broader issues such as the state of Jewish literature and art, pointing out with pride and enthusiasm his belief that Jewish culture in the twentieth century has finally begun to have a significant role in producing and shaping the world's art and literature. Whether discussing the finer details of Talmudic textual analysis or his period of chaplaincy during the Korean War, Potok is articulate and philosophical, bringing deep consideration into what may seem small subjects. Although his novels and histories take place primarily in the recent past, the Chaim Potok that emerges from this collection is a writer deeply rooted in the tensions of the present.

And Social Justice for All Lisa Van Engen, 2019-02-26 Equips parents to inspire kids to take on social injustice at any age. With the constant barrage of difficult stories through news and social media, today's kids are increasingly aware of the real problems real people confront every day. And they're quicker than ever to come to parents and other trusted adults to ask how they can help or why they're not already doing so And Social Justice for Allequips Christian families to tackle social justice issues together It inspires them to bring light and love to a dark and scary world Educator and mom Lisa Van Engen creates innovative resources to engage kids in understanding and responding to fourteen justice issues such as clean water creation care immigration and refugees hunger race and poverty After placing each issue in kid friendly context she offers interactive features High interest conversation starters for each age group to challenge thinking and assumptions A family devotional to anchor each social justice issue in God's Word Engaging age tiered activities for reading playing observing creating connecting and experimenting in God's world Tips and internet links to extend awareness and invest resources in social justice Throughout each chapter children speak their own thoughts about injustice and what they think God is calling them to do By looking at both the roots of injustice and what Christians can do right now to help And Social Justice for All empowers both adults and children to encounter a broken world with insight and empathy Simple yet powerful it lights the path for families to make a real God directed difference together
