it's ridiculous. It's a badge of pride. After all, Borderlands 2 was promoted with the tagline '87 bazillion guns just got bazillioned'. These space western games encourage you to shoot a lot of enemies and monsters, loot their corpses and have a few chuckles while chasing down those bazillion guns. As Kaitlin Tremblay explores in Ain't No Place for a Hero, the Borderlands video game series satirizes its own genre, exposing and addressing the ways first person shooter video games have tended to exclude women, queer people and people of colour, as well as contribute to a hostile playing environment. Tremblay also digs in to the way the Borderlands game franchise, which has sold more than 26 million copies, disrupts traditional notions of heroism, creating nuanced and compelling storytelling that highlights the strengths and possibilities of this relatively new narrative medium. The latest entry in the acclaimed Pop Classics series Ain't No Place for a Hero is a fascinating read for Borderlands devotees as well as the uninitiated. Shakespeare, the Movie, II Richard Burt, Lynda E. Boose, 2003. Combining three key essays from the earlier collection with exciting new work from leading contributors, this text offers sixteen fascinating essays. It is quite simply a must read for any student of Shakespeare film or cultural studies.

Shakespeare's Histories on Screen Jennie M. Votava, 2023-06-29. This volume reframes the critical conversation about Shakespeare's histories and national identity by bringing together two growing bodies of work: early modern race scholarship and adaptation theory. Theorizing a link between adaptation and intersectionality, it demonstrates how, over the past thirty years, race has become a central and constitutive part of British and American screen adaptations of the English histories. Available to expanding audiences via digital media platforms, these adaptations interrogate the dialectic between Shakespeare's cultural capital and racial reckonings on both sides of the Atlantic and across time. By engaging contemporary representations of race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, disability and class, adaptation not only creates artefacts that differ from their source texts but also facilitates the conditions in which race and its intersections in the plays become visible. At the centre of this analysis stand two landmark 21st century history adaptations that use non-traditional casting: the British TV miniseries The Hollow Crown (2012, 2016) and the American independent film H4 (2012), an all-Black Henry IV conflation. In addition to demonstrating how the 21st century screen history illuminates both past and present constructions of embodied difference, these works provide a lens for reassessing two history adaptations from Shakespeare's 1990s box office renaissance when actors of colour were first cast in cinematic versions of the plays. As exemplified by these formal adaptations, reappropriations of race in history, non-traditional Shakespearean casting practices are also currently shaping digital culture's conversations about race in non-Shakespearean period dramas such as Bridgerton. The New American West in Literature and the Arts Amaia Ibarraran-Bigalondo, 2020-05-12. The story of the American West is that of a journey. It is the story of a movement, of a geographical and human transition, of the delineation of a route that would soon become a rooted myth. The story of the American West has similarly journeyed across boundaries in a two-way movement, sometimes feeding the idea of that myth, sometimes challenging it. This collection of essays relates to the notion of the traveling essence.

of the myth of the American West from different geographical and disciplinary standpoints The volume originates in Europe in Spain where the myth traveled was received assimilated and re presented It intends to travel back to the West in a two way cross cultural journey which will hopefully contribute to the delineation of the New always self renewing American West It includes the work of authors of both sides of the Atlantic ocean who propose a cross cultural transdisciplinary dialogue upon the idea the geography and the representation of the American West The Advocate ,2005-04-12 The Advocate is a lesbian gay bisexual transgender LGBT monthly newsmagazine Established in 1967 it is the oldest continuing LGBT publication in the United States
