information The Oxford Handbook of Social Relations in the Roman World Michael Peachin, 2011-01-04 The study of Roman society and social relations blossomed in the 1970s. By now we possess a very large literature on the individuals and groups that constituted the Roman community and the various ways in which members of that community interacted. There simply is, however, no overview that takes into account the multifarious progress that has been made in the past thirty odd years. The purpose of this handbook is twofold. On the one hand, it synthesizes what has heretofore been accomplished in this field. On the other hand, it attempts to configure the examination of Roman social relations in some new ways and thereby indicates directions in which the discipline might now proceed. The book opens with a substantial general introduction that portrays the current state of the field, indicates some avenues for further study, and provides the background necessary for the following chapters. It lays out what is now known about the historical development of Roman society and the essential structures of that community. In a second introductory article, Clifford Ando explains the chronological parameters of the handbook. The main body of the book is divided into the following six sections: 1. Mechanisms of Socialization: primary education, rhetorical education, family law. 2. Mechanisms of Communication and Interaction. 3. Communal Contexts for Social Interaction. 4. Modes of Interpersonal Relations: friendship, patronage, hospitality, dining, funerals, benefactions, honor. 5. Societies Within the Roman Community: collegia, cults, Judaism, Christianity, the army. 6. Marginalized Persons: slaves, women, children, prostitutes, actors and gladiators, bandits. The result is a unique, up-to-date and comprehensive survey of ancient Roman society. Handbook on Peace Education Gavriel Salomon, Ed Cairns, 2011-02-25 This handbook encompasses a range of disciplines that underlie the field of peace education and provides the rationales for the ways it is actually carried out. The discipline is a composite of contributions from a variety of disciplines ranging from social psychology to philosophy and from communication to political science. That is, peace education is an applied subject which is practiced in differing ways but must always be firmly based on a range of established empirical disciplines. The volume is structured around contributions from expert scholars in various fields that underpin peace education, plus contributions from experts in applying peace education in a range of settings, all complemented by chapters which deal with issues related to research and evaluation of peace education.
