Anthropological Perspectives on Global Challenges Emma Gilberthorpe, 2024-03-28 This volume offers a snapshot of anthropological perspectives on global challenges Whilst it could not hope to represent the full scope of anthropological perspectives those that are presented highlight some of the critical flaws embedded in such an all encompassing notion The contributors reveal the possibilities of reimagining the ways in which challenges are understood and addressed and demonstrate how a combination of deep understanding of the past and collaboration cooperation and inclusive dialogue about the future can improve the chances of positive action The collection thus not only shows us that perspectives must change but also how that change might be realised Whilst the chapters are authored solely by anthropologists this book is not solely for anthropologists The book is illustrative of the practical and theoretical insights that anthropology can offer those individuals teams and policy and decision makers engaged in research mitigation and or intervention practices in relation to the global challenges Beyond academia it contributes to broader understandings of the challenges we collectively face at this point in time and how we might collectively and effectively address them

Critical Global Perspectives Binaya Subedi, 2010-03-01 The primary purpose of this book is to invite educators to re think what it means to critically conceptualize knowledge about the world In other words imagining curriculum in a critical way means decolonizing mainstream knowledge about global societies Such an approach re evaluates how we have come to know the world and asks us to consider the socio political context in which we have come to understand what constitutes an ethical global imagination A critical reading of the world calls for the need to examine alternative ways of knowing and teaching about the world a pedagogy that recognizes how diverse subjects have come to view the world A critical question this book raises is What are the radical ways of re conceptualizing curriculum knowledge about global societies so that we can become accountable to the different ways people have come to experience the world Another question the book raises is how do we engage with complexities surrounding social differences such as gender race ethnicity religion etc in the global contexts Analyzing global issues and events through the prism of social difference opens up spaces to advocate a transformative framework for a global education curriculum Transformative in the sense that such a curriculum asks students to challenge stereotypes and engages students in advocating changes within local global contexts A critical global perspective advocates the value of going beyond the nation state centered approach to teaching about topics such as history politics culture etc It calls for the need to develop curriculum that accounts for transnational formations an intervention that asks us to go beyond issues that are confined within national borders Such a practice recognizes the complicated ways the local is connected to the global and vice versa and cautions against creating a hierarchy between national and global issues It also suggests the need to critically examine the pitfalls of forming dichotomies between the local or the national and the global or the center and the periphery
