Stories from an Ancient Land Magnus Fiskesjö, 2021-08-13 The Wa people have a rich civilization of their own and a deep history in the mountains of Southeast Asia Their mythology suggests their land is the first place inhabited by humans which they care for on behalf of the world This book introduces aspects of Wa culture including their approach to the world s troubles and the lessons others might learn from it It also presents a new interpretation of Wa headhunting questioning explanations that see it as a primitive custom and instead placing it within the fraught history of the last few centuries

China's Great Economic Transformation Loren Brandt, Thomas G. Rawski, 2008-04-14 This landmark study provides an integrated analysis of China s unexpected economic boom of the past three decades The authors combine deep China expertise with broad disciplinary knowledge to explain China s remarkable combination of high speed growth and deeply flawed institutions Their work exposes the mechanisms underpinning the origin and expansion of China s great boom Penetrating studies track the rise of Chinese capabilities in manufacturing and in research and development The editors probe both achievements and weaknesses across many sectors including China s fiscal legal and financial institutions The book shows how an intricate minuet combining China s political system with sectorial development globalization resource transfers across geographic and economic space and partial system reform delivered an astonishing and unprecedented growth spurt

Ways of Being Ethnic in Southwest China Stevan Harrell, 2012-11-20 Drawing on extensive fieldwork conducted in the 1980s and 1990s in southern Sichuan this pathbreaking study examines the nature of ethnic consciousness and ethnic relations among local communities focusing on the Nuosu classified as Yi by the Chinese government Prmi Naze and Han It argues that even within the same regional social system ethnic identity is formulated perceived and promoted differently by different communities at different times Ways of Being Ethnic in Southwest China exemplifies a model in which ethnic consciousness and ethnic relations consist of drawing boundaries between one s own group and others crossing those boundaries and promoting internal unity within a group Leaders and members of ethnic groups use commonalties and differences in history culture and kinship to promote internal unity and to strengthen or cross external boundaries Superimposed on the structure of competing and cooperating local groups is a state system of ethnic classification and administration members and leaders of local groups incorporate this system into their own ethnic consciousness co opting or resisting it situationally The heart of the book consists of detailed case studies of three Nuosu village communities along with studies of Prmi and Naze communities smaller groups such as the Yala and Nasu and Han Chinese who live in minority areas These are followed by a synthesis that compares different configurations of ethnic identity in different communities and discusses the implications of these examples for our understanding of ethnicity and for the near future of China This lively description and analysis of the region s complex ethnic identities and relationships constitutes an original and important contribution to the study of ethnic identity Ways of Being Ethnic in Southwest China will be of interest to social scientists concerned with issues of ethnicity and state building

China's Assimilationist Language Policy Gulbahar H. Beckett, Gerard A. Postiglione, 2013-06-17 China has huge ethnic minorities over 40 different groups with a total population of over 100 million Over time China s policies towards minority languages have varied changing from policies which have accommodated minority languages to policies which have encouraged integration At present integrationist policies predominate notably in the education system where instruction in minority languages is being edged out in favour of instruction in Mandarin Chinese This book assesses the current state of indigenous and minority language policy in China It considers especially language policy in the education system including in higher education and provides detailed case studies of how particular ethnic minorities are being affected by the integrationist or assimilationist approach

Discovering History in China Paul A Cohen, 2010-04-29 Since its first publication Paul A Cohen s Discovering History in China has occupied a singular place in American China scholarship Translated into three East Asian languages the volume has become essential to the study of China from the early nineteenth century to today Cohen critiques the work of leading postwar scholars and is especially adamant about not reading China through the lens of Western history To this end he uncovers the strong ethnocentric bias pervading the three major conceptual frameworks of American scholarship of the 1950s and 1960s the impact response modernization and imperialism approaches In place of these Cohen favors a China centered approach in which historians understand Chinese history on its own terms paying close attention to Chinese historical trajectories and Chinese perceptions of their problems rather than a set of expectations derived from Western history In an important new introduction Cohen reflects on his fifty year career as a historian of China and discusses major recent trends in the field Although some of these developments challenge a narrowly conceived China centered approach insofar as they enable more balanced comparisons between China and the West and recast the Chinese and their history in more human less exotic terms they powerfully affirm the central thrust of Cohen s work Xinjiang S. Diabetes During and Beyond Pregnancy: A Life Course Perspective Wei Bao, Margarita de Veciana, 2020-08-28 New Genetics, New Social Formations Peter Glasner, Paul Atkinson, Helen Greenslade, 2006-12-15 New genetic technologies cut across a range of public regulatory domains and private lifeworlds often appearing to generate an institutional void in response to the complex challenges they pose As a result a number of new social formations are being developed to legitimate public engagement and avoid the perceived democratic deficit that may result Papers in this volume discuss a variety of these manifestations in a global context including genetic data banks committees of inquiry non governmental organisations NGOs national research laboratories These institutions across both health and agriculture are explored in such diverse locations as Amazonia China Finland Israel the UK and the USA This volume exhibits a clear thematic coherence around the impact of the new genetics and their associated technologies on new social formations and the case studies included have a significant international focus showing a balance between theoretical and empirical approaches in this rapidly changing field This innovative new volume will be of interest to postgraduates and professionals in the fields of sociology social anthropology science and technology studies and environmental studies

Doing Business in Rural China Thomas Heberer, 2012-09-01 Longlisted for the 2009 ICAS Book Award Mountainous Liangshan Prefecture on the southern border of Sichuan Province is one of China's most remote regions Although Liangshan's majority ethnic group the Nuosu now classified by the Chinese government as part of the Yi ethnic group practiced a subsistence economy and were by Chinese standards extremely poor Their traditional society was stratified into endogamous castes the most powerful of which owned slaves With the incorporation of Liangshan into China's new socialist society in the mid twentieth century the Nuosu were required to abolish slavery and what the Chinese government considered to be superstitious religious practices When Han Chinese moved into the area competing with Nuosu for limited resources and introducing new cultural and economic challenges some Nuosu took advantage of China's new economic policies in the 1980s to begin private businesses In Doing Business in Rural China Thomas Heberer tells the stories of individual entrepreneurs and presents a wealth of economic data gleaned from extensive fieldwork in Liangshan He documents and analyzes the phenomenal growth during the last two decades of Nuosu run businesses comparing these with Han run businesses and asking how ethnicity affects the new market oriented economic structure and how economics in turn affects Nuosu culture and society He finds that Nuosu entrepreneurs have effected significant change in local economic structures and social institutions and have financed major social and economic development projects This economic development has prompted Nuosu entrepreneurs to establish business political and social relationships beyond the traditional social confines of the clan while also fostering awareness and celebration of ethnicity
