Bhagat,2021-07-13 This book reconceptualizes migration studies in India and brings back the idea of citizenship to the center of the contested relationship between the state and internal migrants in the country It interrogates the multiple vulnerabilities of disenfranchised internal migrants as evidenced in the mass exodus of migrants during the COVID 19 crisis Challenging dominant economic and demographic theories of mobility and relying on a wide range of innovative heterodox methodologies this volume points to the possibility of reimagining migrants as citizens The volume discusses various facets of internal migration such as the roles of gender ethnicity caste electoral participation of the internal migrants livelihood diversification struggle for settlement and politics of displacement and highlights the case of temporary seasonal and circulatory migrants as the most exploited and invisible group among migrants Presenting secondary and recent field data from across regions including from the northeast the book explores the processes under which people migrate and suggests ways for ameliorating the conditions of migrants through sustained civic and political action This book will be essential for scholars and researchers of migration studies politics governance development studies public policy sociology and gender studies as well as policymakers government bodies civil society and interested general readers

Artificial Intelligence Perspective for Smart Cities Vahap Tecim,Sezer Bozkus Kahyaoglu,2022-11-23 The concept of a smart city is used widely in general however it is hard to explain because of the complexity and multidimensionality of this notion However the essential qualification for being a smart city is to achieve sustainable social environmental and economic development and boost the living standards of society based on Information and Communication Technology ICT and Artificial intelligence AI AI in smart cities has become an important aspect for cities that face great challenges to make smart decisions for social well being particularly cybersecurity and corporate sustainability In this context we aim to contribute literature with a value added approach where various AI applications of smart cities are discussed from a different perspective First we start by discussing the conceptual design modeling and determination of components for the sustainability of a smart city structure Since smart cities operate on spatial based data it is important to design operate and manage smart city elements using Geographical Information Systems GIS technologies Second we define the structure type unit and functionality of the layers to be placed on the GIS to achieve best practices based on Industry 4.0 components. Transportation is one of the key indicators of smart cities so it is critical to make transportation in smart cities accessible for different disabled groups by using AI technologies. Third, we demonstrate what kinds of technologies should be used for which disabled groups in different transportation vehicles with specific examples. Finally, we create a discussion platform for processes and sub processes such as waste management, emergency management, risk management and data management for establishing smart cities including the financial and ethical aspects.

Social Exclusion in Cross-National Perspective

Robert J. Chaskin, Bong Joo Lee, Surinder Jaswal, 2019-05-28. Global processes have an increasing influence on local contexts and the nature and distribution of opportunities among populations across the globe. While capital and population mobility, advances in information and communications technology and economic liberalization have fostered economic development, industrialization and wealth for some, they have also engendered growing inequalities in income, prosperity, well-being and access. Those left behind by these global transformations often experience not only material deprivation but broader dislocation from the contexts, institutions and capabilities that provide access to social and economic opportunity. The concept of social exclusion has been widely adopted to describe the conditions of economic, social, political and/or cultural marginalization experienced by particular groups of people due to extreme poverty, discrimination, dislocation and disenfranchisement. This book explores the dynamics of social exclusion within the context of globalization across four countries: China, India, South Korea and the United States. In particular, it examines how social exclusion is defined, manifested and responded to with regard to diverse social arenas and processes, varying mechanisms and scales, and a range of impacted populations. Based on collaborative research activities and in-depth deliberation among leading scholars from major academic institutions in each of the four aforementioned countries, the volume provides a rich account of the interplay between globalization and social exclusion while highlighting the ways in which responses may be more or less effective in different contexts. Its insights will be of particular interest to academics, researchers and students across diverse social science disciplines.

Family Violence From a Global Perspective Sylvia M. Asay, John DeFrain, Marcee Metzger, Bob Moyer, 2013-06-17. Focusing on family violence worldwide, Family Violence From a Global Perspective: A Strengths Based Approach draws on the expertise of authors from 16 countries representing 17 cultures to tell the story of domestic violence in their respective parts of the world. This one-of-a-kind edited collection by Sylvia M. Asay, John DeFrain, Marcee Metzger and Bob Moyer incorporates a strengths-based approach including individual, relationship, community and societal strengths. The collection draws on multiple perspectives: academics, counselors, organizers, activists and victims to determine strengths and analyze how they can translate into greater safety for victims, increased accountability of perpetrators and improved policy formation and research. Each chapter focuses on the lived experiences of victims of intimate partner violence, child abuse or elder abuse and includes information about the abuser, the family, the community and the culture.

Understanding

migration within countries: A global perspective Maystadt, Jean-François, Peracchi, Silvia, Sargsyan, Ella, You, Liangzhi, 2025-04-29 The majority of migrants remain within their own borders While 281 million people have migrated in another country in 2020 the number of internal migrants is estimated to stand at around 763 million UN DESA 2016 IOM 2021 At the global level the existing literature has mainly focused on understanding the drivers of international migration Karemera et al 2000 Mayda 2010 Kim and Cohen 2010 Understanding the dynamics of internal migration is key for conjecturing future prospects in terms of poverty food insecurity urbanization within country inequalities and geopolitical instability Mega-Urban Development and Transformation Processes in Vietnam Frauke Kraas, Javier Revilla Diez, Matthias Garschagen, Le Thu Hoa, 2023 Since the beginning of the Doi Moi reforms Vietnam's economy and society have been profoundly transformed While in 1986 less than 13 million of Vietnam's inhabitants lived in areas classified as urban 20% the number has risen to more than 30 million inhabitants today 35% of the total population This massive urbanisation was made possible by the rapid transformation of the former agricultural state into an industrial and service state and extensive migration processes from rural areas to the fast growing cities and megacities Fifteen articles analyse the current situation

Biodiversity Conservation, Indigenous Knowledge and practices: A Naga Perspective Martemjen, 2017-08-24 Conservationist has been contemptuous of Indigenous peoples and their knowledge As such all the modern policies acts and laws in biodiversity conservation intends to follow a top down approach where decisions to be enacted upon the local people their land biodiversity forest etc are done at the top level without the local peoples consent which ultimately leads to conflict As such the author through this book advocates for the implementation of two pronged policy i.e bottom up and top down approach for a practical and effective biodiversity conservation While the conservationist environmentalist and policy makers view the forested lands as the last resort for biodiversity conservation to the local people it is their only source of livelihood The author draws attention on the Naga indigenous knowledge system in the light of United Nations Convention on Biological Diversity UNCBD through which they were able to sustainably manage and conserve their biodiversity while obtaining their livelihood from the same This book will help discover a deeper measure and value of the Naga indigenous knowledge system and will act as a resourceful material to students researchers activist and local people in their quest to comprehend the important dynamics of biodiversity conservation and indigenous knowledge It will also serve as a valuable reference for indigenous peoples and policy makers all around the world who seeks to understand and implement indigenous knowledge systems in broader emerging biodiversity conservation policies and strategies Mental Health:
