Perspectives On John Huston:

John Huston's Filmmaking Lesley Brill, 1997-10-13 John Huston's Filmmaking offers an analysis of the life and work of one of the greatest American independent filmmakers. Always visually exciting, Huston's films sensitively portray humankind in all its incarnations, chronicling the attempts by protagonists to conceive and articulate their identities. Fundamental questions of selfhood, happiness, and love are intimately connected to the idea of home, which for the filmmaker also signified a congenial place among other people in the world. In this study, Lesley Brill shows Huston's films to be far more than formulaic adventures of masculine failure, arguing instead that they demonstrate the close connection between humanity, the natural world, and divinity.

Perspectives on John Huston Stephen Cooper, 1994 Philosophical Perspective on Cinema Pedro Blas González, 2022-05-17 The main premise of Philosophical Perspective on Cinema is simple: Can a visual medium such as cinema put in greater perspective diverse aspects of human experience? Films are usually sorted by genres, but by applying metaphysical, existential categories to cinema, the author enables readers to reflect on the nature and essence of existence by making life appear less transparent to itself. Undoubtedly, the connection between sensual reality and philosophical reflection is often glossed over when the emphasis is placed on theoretical abstractions and not life itself. While this work is a reflection on the philosophy of existence, the author embraces a practical approach to the metaphysical, existential foundation of human existence.

A Director's Progress Garth Buckner, 1956 Meeting Movies Norman Norwood Holland, 2006 Casablanca for example provides millions with a sense of satisfaction. Why? How did this movie about World War II satisfy an adolescent boy afraid of not being a man but too young to be in the military? How did such an outrageously sentimental film enable Holland and many others to deal with the scary state of the world in 1942 and indeed ever since? Meeting Movies poses such questions again and again. As a professor of literature and film, Holland feels compelled to interpret. Yet beneath and beyond his intellectualizing, a variety of half-conscious personal considerations and recurring themes color his feelings and hence his interpretations. And this, he claims, is true for all of us.

Joyce/Lowry Patrick A. McCarthy, Paul Tiessen, 2021-10-21 While James Joyce was a central figure of high modernism, Malcolm Lowry spoke for the next generation of modernist writers, and despite his denials, was almost certainly influenced by Joyce. Wherever the truth lies, there are correspondences and differences to be explored between Joyce and Lowry that are far more interesting than the question of direct influence. Despite numerous differences, their works have much in common: verbal richness, experimentation with narrative structure and perspective, a fascination with cultural and historical forces as well as with the process of artistic creation, and the inclusion of artist figures who are in varying degrees ironic self portrayals The contributors to Joyce Lowry examine the relationship of these two expatriates writers both to each other and to broader issues in the study of literary modernism and its aftermath This collection embraces a variety of approaches The volume begins with a consideration of Joyce and Lowry as practitioners of Expressionist art and concludes with an essay on John Huston s cinematic interpretation of works by both writers In between are explorations of nationalism anti-Semitism syphilis mental illness and authorial design

Visions Of Virtue In Popular Film Joseph Kupfer,2018-03-08 Visions of Virtue in Popular Film grows out of the interplay between film criticism and a philosophical view of virtue Joseph H Kupfer argues that film fictions can be integral to moral reflection and thus by examining the narrative and cinematic aspects of popular films we can derive important moral truths about people and their behavior Taking as his base a classical conception of virtue and vice Kupfer offers an in depth examination of Groundhog Day The African Queen Parenthood Rob Roy Fresh Jaws and Aliens in order to investigate the value of virtue within ever widening social contexts
