Peruvian Contexts Of Change:

Peruvian Contexts of Change William W. Stein, 1985 Geoenvironmental Changes in the Cordillera Blanca, Peru Vít Vilímek, Bryan Mark, Adam Emmer, 2024-06-20 This book focuses on Peru's highest and most glacierized mountain range the Cordillera Blanca. This mountain range experienced numerous disasters in the past e.g. lake Palcacocha outburst in 1941 earthquake induced ice and rock avalanche from Mt Huascarán in 1970 and has attracted the attention of researchers from around the world. The 15 chapters of the book span from broadly thematic topics of geology geomorphology climate hydrology and hydrogeology lakes glaciation and environmental settings to more specific topics and emergent themes of relevance for the Cordillera Blanca including studies of various types of natural hazards landslides GLOFs. While most of the chapters focus on biophysical processes of the natural environment several chapters explore the complex interactions between humans and environmental factors providing insights and perspectives from social science and the humanities. This book offers an unprecedentedly comprehensive overview of the state of the art knowledge about the geoenvironmental changes in the Cordillera Blanca.

IJER Vol 15-N1 International Journal of Educational Reform, 2006-06-13 The mission of the International Journal of Educational Reform (IJER) is to keep readers up to date with worldwide developments in education reform by providing scholarly information and practical analysis from recognized international authorities. As the only peer reviewed scholarly publication that combines authors' voices without regard for the political affiliations perspectives or research methodologies IJER provides readers with a balanced view of all sides of the political and educational mainstream. To this end IJER includes but is not limited to inquiry based and opinion pieces on developments in such areas as policy administration curriculum instruction law and research. IJER should thus be of interest to professional educators with decision making roles and policymakers at all levels since it provides a broad based conversation between and among policymakers practitioners and academicians about reform goals objectives and methods for success throughout the world. Readers can call on IJER to learn from an international group of reform implementers by discovering what they can do that has actually worked. IJER can also help readers to understand the pitfalls of current reforms in order to avoid making similar mistakes. Finally it is the mission of IJER to help readers to learn about key issues in school reform from movers and shakers who help to study and shape the power base directing educational reform in the U.S. and the world.

Black Rhythms of Peru Heidi Feldman, 2023-02-28 Winner of the IASPM's Woody Guthrie Award 2007 In the late 1950s to 1970s an Afro-Peruvian revival brought the forgotten music and dances of Peru's African musical heritage to Lima's theatrical stages. The revival conjured newly imagined links to the past in order to celebrate and to some extent recreate Black culture in Peru. In this groundbreaking study of the Afro-Peruvian revival and its aftermath Heidi Carolyn Feldman reveals how Afro-Peruvian artists remapped blackness from the perspective of the Black Pacific a marginalized group of African diasporic communities along Latin America's Pacific coast. Feldman's ethnography of remembering traces the memory projects of charismatic Afro-Peruvian revival artists and companies including Jos Durand Nicomedes and Victoria Santa Cruz and Per Negro culminating with Susana Baca's entry onto the global world music stage in the 1990s. Readers will learn how Afro Peruvian music and dance genres although recreated in the revival to symbolize the ancient and forgotten past express competing modern beliefs regarding what constitutes Black Rhythms of Peru.

Land use change in four landscapes in the Peruvian Amazon Marcus, M., Gutierrez-Velez, V.H., Cronkleton, P., 2020-09-09. This working paper uses remote sensing data and methods to characterize land cover change in four sites in the lowland Peruvian Amazon over a period of three decades 1987-2017. Multi-village landscapes were purposefully selected to include road accessible sites and others only accessible by river. Landscape analysis focused on buffers around the selected villages used to approximate the areas of influence of farmers in these communities. Deforestation in the Peruvian Amazon has been commonly attributed to agriculture expansion by smallholders. This belief falls short in acknowledging that the contribution of smallholder deforestation is mediated by others' decisions around infrastructure development. In this analysis, road connected landscapes experienced greater loss of closed canopy forest while closed canopy forest remained mostly stable in the river sites over the thirty year study period. Results indicated that closed canopy forest loss occurred in parallel with agricultural expansion at the road sites. The findings contribute to a more nuanced understanding of local land use dynamics and the role of regional infrastructure development as a driver of forest loss.

The context of REDD+ in Peru: Drivers, agents and institutions Hugo Che Piu, Mary Menton, 2014-09-09. This country profile contains an analysis of the causes of deforestation and forest degradation in Peru and the economic, institutional and political context in which REDD is emerging in the country. Peru has a total forest area of approximately 73 million hectares, almost 60% of national territory. In the past few years, deforestation decreased from 150 000 ha/year to 106 000 ha/year but it still represents one of the biggest sources of greenhouse gas emissions in the country. While it has decreased recently, an increase is expected during coming years due to development policies that support the expansion of road infrastructure in the Amazon, an increase in agricultural production and support for the extractive sectors. The government has declared a goal of reducing to zero the deforestation rate across 54 million hectares of primary forest by 2021 and has initiated the preparation process for REDD (Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation) Plus at a national and subnational level. While the pilot projects are already underway with international and national funding and even certification according to international standards, the national government is still in the process of developing REDD and MRV (Measuring, Reporting and Verification) strategies under the leadership of MINAM. Even if REDD has solid support within certain sectors of the government and civil society, it will face big challenges during the implementation phase due to a lack of intersectoral coordination and support to a socioeconomic development that would stimulate conservation and stop deforestation and degradation. In the process of preparation for REDD, the country has advanced with the processes of safeguarding the participation of the civil society and the protection of native and local communities' rights. At the same time, the challenges concerning weak governance at a national and regional level and conflicts of interest are threats to the effective efficient and equitable implementation in the long term

The Andean World Linda J. Seligmann, Kathleen S. Fine-Dare, 2018-11-08 This comprehensive reference offers an authoritative overview of Andean lifeways It provides valuable historical context and demonstrates the relevance of learning about the Andes in light of contemporary events and debates The volume covers the ecology and pre Columbian history of the region and addresses key themes such as cosmology aesthetics gender and household relations modes of economic production exchange and consumption postcolonial legacies identities political organization and movements and transnational interconnections With over 40 essays by expert contributors that highlight the breadth and depth of Andean worlds this is an essential resource for students and scholars alike

Women's Place in the Andes Florence E. Babb, 2018-05-25 In Women's Place in the Andes Florence E Babb draws on four decades of anthropological research to reexamine the complex interworkings of gender race and indigeneity in Peru and beyond She deftly interweaves five new analytical chapters with six of her previously published works that exemplify currents in feminist anthropology and activism Babb argues that decolonizing feminism and engaging more fully with interlocutors from the South will lead to a deeper understanding of the iconic Andean women who are subjects of both national pride and everyday scorn This book's novel approach goes on to set forth a collaborative methodology for rethinking gender and race in the Americas

Vicos and Beyond Tom Greaves, Ralph Bolton, Florencia Zapata, 2010-10-16 In 1952 Professor Allan Holmberg arranged for Cornell University to lease the Hacienda Vicos an agricultural estate in the central Peruvian highlands on which some 1800 Quechua speaking highland peasants resided Between 1952 and 1957 Holmberg with colleagues and students initiated a set of social economic and agrarian changes and nurtured mechanisms for community based management of the estate by the resident peasants By the end of a second lease in 1962 sufficient political pressure had been brought to bear on a reluctant national government to force the sale of Vicos to its people Holmberg's twin goals for the Vicos Project were to bring about community possession of their land base and to study the process as it unfolded advancing anthropological understanding of cultural change To describe the process of doing both he invented the term participant intervention Despite the large corpus of existing Vicos publications this book contains much information that here reaches print for the first time The chapter authors do not entirely agree on various key points regarding the nature of the Vicos Project the intentions of project personnel and community actors and what interpretive framework is most valid in part these disagreements reflect the relevance and importance of the Vicos Project to contemporary applied anthropologists and the contrasting ways in which any historical event can be explained Some chapters contrast Vicos with other projects in the southern Andean highlands others examine new developments at Vicos itself The conclusion suggests how those changes should be understood within Andean anthropology and within anthropology more generally

Divisions and Solidarities Alison MacEwen Scott, 2005-08-04 Traditionally class analysis has exaggerated the role of economic differentiation

particularly that of the informal economy and has underestimated the degree of common consciousness amongst the labouring class In Divisions and Solidarities Alison MacEwen Scott examines class analysis and the inter relationship between gender and class which creates a shared interest between men and women in some contexts and a divergence of interest in others Using case studies of the urban population in Latin America she presents a major critique of existing class theories and presents a new theoretical treatment on class formation the orthodoxy of the informal economy class consciousness and political participation Regenerative and Sustainable Futures for Latin America and the Caribbean Maria Alejandra Gonzalez-Perez, 2022-01-27 Regenerative and Sustainable Futures for Latin America and the Caribbean explores how to build sustainable futures for Latin America and the Caribbean presents recommendations for policy and decision makers to shape sustainable futures and reflects on the value of collective action for a region that deserves a better tomorrow Cash Transfers in Context Jean-Pierre Olivier de Sardan, Emmanuelle Piccoli, 2018-09-07 Marginal in status a decade ago cash transfer programs have become the preferred channel for delivering emergency aid or tackling poverty in low and middle income countries While these programs have had positive effects they are typical of top down development interventions in that they impose on local contexts standardized norms and procedures regarding conditionality targeting and delivery This book sheds light on the crucial importance of these contexts and the many unpredicted consequences of cash transfer programs worldwide detailing how the latter are used by actors to pursue their own strategies and how external norms are reinterpreted circumvented and contested by local populations , American Women in Mission Dana Lee Robert, 1996 The stereotype of the woman missionary has ranged from that of the long suffering wife characterized by the epitaph Died given over to hospitality to that of the spinster in her unstylish dress and wire rimmed glasses alone somewhere for thirty years teaching heathen children Like all caricatures those of the exhausted wife and frustrated old maid carry some truth the underlying message of the stereotypes is that missionary women were perceived as marginal to the central tasks of mission Rather than being remembered for preaching the gospel the quintessential male task missionary women were noted for meeting human needs and helping others sacrificing themselves without plan or reason all for the sake of bringing the world to Jesus Christ Historical evidence however gives lie to the truism that women missionaries were and are doers but not thinkers reactive secondary figures rather than proactive primary ones The first American women to serve as foreign missionaries in 1812 were among the best educated women of their time Although barred from obtaining the college education or ministerial credentials of their husbands the early missionary wives had read their Jonathan Edwards and Samuel Hopkins Not only did they go abroad with particular theologies to share but their identities as women caused them to develop gender based mission theories Early nineteenth century women seldom wrote theologies of mission but they wrote letters and kept journals that reveal a thought world and set of assumptions about women's roles in the missionary task The activities of missionary wives were not random they were part of a mission strategy that gave women a particular role in the advancement of the reign of God By moving from mission field to mission field in chronological order of missionary presence Robert charts missiological developments as they took place in dialogue with the urgent context of the day Each case study marks the beginning of the mission theory Baptist women in Burma for example are only considered in their first decades there and are not traced into the present Robert believes that at this early stage of research into women's mission theory integrity and analysis lies more in a succession of contextualized case studies than in gross generalizations The Terrible Meek Lonnie D. Kliever, 1987

Between Field and Cooking Pot Florence E. Babb, 2010-06-04 From reviews of the first edition Between Field and Cooking Pot offers details of the daily lives of marketwomen in the central Andean departmental capital of Huaraz A welcome addition to studies of women and international development this book contains a wealth of firsthand material collected through informal participant observation as well as formal interviews and analysis of statistical data The book encourages us to imagine how the dynamic culture of marketwomen might intersect with the construction representation and effects of class and gender American Anthropologist The book has a clear and readable style moving easily between vignettes of marketwomen's lives descriptions of the markets themselves and surveys of the theoretical literature Babb's long close involvement with the Huaraz markets is apparent As someone who has spent a lot of time in Andean markets I found the book pleasurable to read because it recreated the experience of the marketplace so well American Ethnologist This revised edition of Between Field and Cooking Pot offers an updated appraisal of what neoliberal politics and economics mean in the lives of marketwomen in the nineties based on new fieldwork conducted in 1997 Babb also reflects on how recent currents in feminist and anthropological studies have caused her to rethink some aspects of Andean marketers in Peruvian culture and society Beyond National Identity Michele Greet, 2009 Traces changes in Andean artists' vision of indigenous peoples as well as shifts in the critical discourse surrounding their work between 1920 and 1960

Care and Agency Jeanine Anderson, Jessaca B. Leinaweaver, 2024-10-11 Andean communities occupy a special place in the history of anthropology having given shape to fundamental theories of kinship peasant economics Indigenous medical systems ritual life and others Yet children have been shortchanged in research and theory building Care and Agency based on detailed ethnographies of six towns in the province of Yauyos restores children to a central research position Contemporary children's studies emphasize children's agency and autonomy and these take surprising forms under the conditions of the rural Andes At the same time the book incorporates and extends current discussions of caregiving and its organization in human societies Children in the Andes are involved in the care of each other of adults of animals of the environment The activities sociality and subjective states of children of different ages genders and social strata are variable in ways that make it impossible to speak of a single Andean childhood The future they face is also uncertain as the Peruvian nation stumbles through cycles of incompetent government whose common thread is the neglect of small scale family farming and the welfare of rural populations This book is a fascinating look at Andean childhood for anyone interested in the lives of children S.E.L.A. ,1986 José Carlos Mariátegui's Unfinished Revolution Melisa Moore,2013-12-18 The years 1909 1930 the eleven year presidency of the businessman turned politician Augusto B Legu a mark a formative period of Peruvian modernity witnessing the continuity of a process of reconstruction and the development of an intellectual and cultural tradition after a humbling defeat during the War of the Pacific 1879 1883 But these years were also fraught with conflict generated by long standing divisions and new rivalries A postwar generation of intellectuals and artists led by Jos Carlos Mari tegui and galvanized by left wing thinking and an avant garde aesthetic sought representation in the fields of politics and the arts to realize the modernizing potentialities opened up by a Positivist oligarchy New political and artistic conceptions raised their awareness of the fractured sense of nationhood in Peru and the need for a new project of nation formation based on a common political and cultural consciousness Crucially this gave rise to divergent political and artistic positions and practices Mari tegui s Indigenist Marxist politics and Modernist inspired poetics through his influential journal Amauta were pivotal in revitalizing conciliating and channeling those of his cohorts and challengers Comprising six full length chapters a comprehensive introduction and conclusion this monograph is ambitious in scope and depth It provides fresh readings of key writings of Mari tegui one of Latin America s most important and revolutionary political cultural and aesthetic theorists through the lens of his poetics emphasizing the value of this approach for a fuller understanding of his work s political meaning and impact It does so through detailed analysis of the poetic expressive language employed in seminal political essays aimed at forging a new Marxist position in 1920s Peru Furthermore it offers powerful and original critiques of under studied intellectuals of this time especially aprista Futurists Socialists and Indigenists including female writers and artists such as Magda Portal ngela Ramos and Julia Codesido whose work he championed These readings are fully contextualized in terms of detailed critical study of complex sociopolitical conditions and positions and biographical intellectual backgrounds of Mari tegui and his contemporaries This monograph underscores the fundamental importance of Mari tegui in the development of political and artistic practices and projects that shaped a national shared yet also heterogeneous political culture and cultural tradition in Peru during and after his lifetime
