Young Architects at Play Ann Gadzikowski, 2020-12-29

When children build with blocks they are both literally and figuratively constructing their knowledge of the world. When we see children's construction play through the lens of architecture we are able to support and extend children's learning on all four STEM subjects: science, technology, engineering, and math. Young Architects at Play is a guide for both teachers and parents and includes a diverse variety of activities and resources. More than 20 projects involve both traditional classroom materials like unit blocks as well as natural materials found objects, cardboard, and authentic woodworking materials. Throughout the book Ann Gadzikowski makes meaningful connections between STEM learning and the power of stories, both the children's own narratives as well as the rich diversity of stories and illustrations from children's literature.

How Picturebooks Work Maria Nikolajeva, Carole Scott, 2013-02-01

How Picturebooks Work is an innovative and engaging look at the interplay between text and image in picturebooks. The authors explore picturebooks as a specific medium or genre in literature and culture, one that prepares children for other media of communication and they argue that picturebooks may be the most influential media of all in the socialization and representation of children. Spanning an international range of children's books, this book examines such favorites as Curious George and Frog and Toad Are Friends along with the works of authors and illustrators including Maurice Sendak and Tove Jansson among others. With 116 illustrations, How Picturebooks Work offers the student of children's literature a new methodology, new theories, and a new set of critical tools for examining the picturebook form.
