Los Angeles in Fiction David M. Fine, 1984 Imagining Los Angeles David Fine, 2016-06-01 The literary image of Los Angeles has evolved since the 1880s from promotional literature that hyped the region as a New Eden to contemporary visions of the city as a perplexing sometimes corrupt even apocalyptic place that reflects all that is wrong with America In Imagining Los Angeles the first literary history of the city in more than fifty years critic David Fine traces the history and mood of the place through the work of writers as diverse as Helen Hunt Jackson Mary Austin Norman Mailer Raymond Chandler Joan Didion Carolyn See and many others His lively and engaging text focuses on the way these writers saw Los Angeles and used the image of the city as an element in their work and on how that image has changed as the city itself became ever larger more complex and more socially and ethnically diverse This is essential reading for anyone interested in the literature and changing image of Southern California Los Angeles Peter Moore Smith, 2005 A beautiful neighbor's arrival and her eerie disappearance knocks Angel Veronchek's solitary reclusive life off balance and plunges him into the sinister world of Los Angeles nights a world of secrets that aren't meant to be told and people who aren't meant to be found

The Road to Los Angeles John Fante, 2010-05-18 I had a lot of jobs in Los Angeles Harbor because our family was poor and my father was dead My first job was ditchdigging a short time after I graduated from high school Every night I couldn't sleep from the pain in my back We were digging an excavation in an empty lot there wasn't any shade the sun came straight from a cloudless sky and I was down in that hole digging with two huskies who dug with a love for it always laughing and telling jokes laughing and smoking bitter tobacco Crime Fiction John Scaggs, 2005 Provides a lively introduction to what is both a wide ranging and hugely popular literary genre Accessible and clear this comprehensive overview is the essential guide for all those studying crime fiction Los Angeles Stories Robert Noyola, 2002-05-24 Los Angeles is a city of losers Robert Mitchum Fourteen million inhabitants in Los Angeles county in a battle for survival Three million people within the city limits of Los Angeles compete for jobs space food water air and are seduced and overwhelmed by exiting living in Los Angeles with too much luxury that exhausts the human spirit This is a collection of short stories about the characters that Robert Noyola knew and lived among during his years in Los Angeles The final story The Golden Triangle is an accurate fictionalization of the history of his hometown of Port Arthur Texas Where he finally returned after retiring in Los Angeles California then moving to El Paso Texas American Women Writing Fiction Mickey Pearlman, 2014-10-17 American literature is no longer the refuge of the solitary hero Like the society it mirrors it is now a far richer many faceted explication of a complicated and diverse society racially culturally and ethnically interwoven and at the same time fractured and fractious Ten women writing fiction in America today Toni Cade Bambara Joan Didion Louise Erdrich Gail Godwin Mary Gordon Alison Lurie Joyce Carol Oates Jayne Anne Phillips Susan Fromberg Schaeffer and Mary Lee Settle represent that geographic ethnic and racial diversity that is distinctively American Their differing perspectives on literature and the Animals in Detective Fiction Ruth Hawthorn, John Miller, 2022-12-06 This book explores the vast array of animals that populate detective fiction If the genre begins as is widely supposed with Edgar Allan Poe's Murders in the Rue Morgue 1841 then detective fiction's very first culprit is an animal Animals moreover consistently appear as victims clues and companions while the abstract conception of animality is closely tied to the idea of criminality Although it is often described as an essentially conservative form detective fiction can unsettle the binary of human and animal to intersect with developing concerns in animal studies animal agency the ethical complexities of human animal interaction the politics and literary aesthetics of violence and animal metaphor Gathering its 14 essays into sections on ontologies ethics politics and forms Animals in Detective Fiction provides a compelling and nuanced analysis of the central role creatures play in this enduringly popular and continually morphing literary form

Afterlives of Abandoned Work

Matthew Harle, 2018-12-27 Afterlives of Abandoned Work considers the relevance of unfinished projects to literary history and criticism looking beyond famous posthumous work to investigate the abandoned everyday from scrapped plans and rejected ideas to half written novels or unfinished artistic works. It traces how the reading of abandoned creative endeavor whether arriving in the form of a rejection letter, a disagreement with a collaborator or the simple act of walking away from one's desk can change the way we think about cultural production, the creative process and the intellectual construction of everyday life. Over five distinct journeys through a variety of archives from major research libraries to the unique collections of individual enthusiasts, Matthew Harle draws surprising connections between literary studies, media studies and visual arts exploring unfinished projects from Thomas Pynchon, Muriel Spark, B. S. Johnson, Harold Pinter and others. Rooted in literary criticism, Afterlives of Abandoned Work reads unbuilt buildings, unfilmed screenplays and unpublished novels and radio sketches as forms of text that can help us consider the enduring fragmentation and anecdotal construction of cultural form as well as expand literary criticism's approach to the archive.
