

My mother lost her mother recently. Before she went away, I never realised how much she'd miss her.

Alongside, I can't fathom the time I'd have to live without my mother, let's be realistic.

This mother's day, I promise my mother that I'll be there for her when she needs her mother, and when she would want to be the mother.

She can play all those roles so perfectly, I can at least try to, for her.

My Mother Is Lost:

My Mama Lost Her Job Dena Bell Bryant, 2010-07 This is a story of a mother who explains to her son that she lost her job. With the current economic crisis many parents find themselves in this situation. Very often children do not understand and it is hard for the parent to explain. This story provides a conversation starter for that parent trying to tell their child of a job loss. It also incorporates exercise.

Handbook of Death and Dying Clifton D. Bryant, 2003-10 Dying is a social as well as physiological phenomenon. Each society characterizes and consequently treats death and dying in its own individual ways, ways that differ markedly. These particular patterns of death and dying engender modal cultural responses and such institutionalized behavior has familiar economical, educational, religious, and political implications. The Handbook of Death and Dying takes stock of the vast literature in the field of thanatology, arranging and synthesizing what has been an unwieldy body of knowledge into a concise yet comprehensive reference work. This two-volume handbook will provide direction and momentum to the study of death-related behavior for many years to come.

Key Features: More than 100 contributors representing authoritative expertise in a diverse array of disciplines: Anthropology, Family Studies, History, Law, Medicine, Mortuary Science, Philosophy, Psychology, Social work, Sociology, Theology. A distinguished editorial board of leading scholars and researchers in the field. More than 100 definitive essays covering almost every dimension of death-related behavior. Comprehensive and inclusive, exploring concepts and social patterns within the larger topical concern. Journal article length essays that address topics with appropriate detail. Multidisciplinary and cross-cultural coverage.

My Mother's House and Sido Colette, 2002-06-20 In My Mother's House and Sido, Colette plays fictional variations on the themes of childhood, family, and above all, her mother. Vividly alive, fond of cities, music, theater, and books, Sido devoted herself to her village, Saint-Sauveur, to her garden with its inhabitants and its animals, and especially to her children, particularly her youngest whom she called Minet. Unlike Gigi and Chéri, which focus largely on sexual love and its repercussions, My Mother's House and Sido center on the compelling figure of a powerful, nurturing woman in late nineteenth-century rural France, conveying the impact she had on her community and on her daughter who grew up to be a great writer.

Melville: A Novel Jean Giono, 2017-09-12 Originally published to promote his French translation of Moby-Dick, Jean Giono's Melville: A Novel is an astonishing literary compound of fiction, biography, personal essay, and criticism. In the fall of 1849, Herman Melville traveled to London to deliver his novel White-Jacket to his publisher. On his return to America, Melville would write Moby-Dick. Melville: A Novel imagines what happened in between: the adventurous writer fleeing London for the country, wrestling with an angel, falling in love with an Irish nationalist, and finally meeting the angel's challenge to express man's fate by writing the novel that would become his masterpiece. Eighty years after it appeared in English, Moby-Dick was translated into French for the first time by the Provençal novelist Jean Giono and his friend Lucien Jacques. The publisher persuaded Giono to write a preface granting him unusual latitude. The result was this literary essay, Melville: A Novel, part biography, part philosophical rumination part romance part unfettered fantasy Paul Eprile's expressive translation of this intimate homage brings the exchange full circle Paul Eprile was a co-winner of the French American Foundation's 2018 Translation Prize for his translation of Melville

A Carpenter's Daughter Renny Christopher, 2009-01-01 A Carpenter's Daughter is the story of the difficulties and rewards of the educational system for one who was not meant to go through it The single most reliable predictor of whether someone will earn a BA is whether at least one of their parents has one yet today there are an increasing number of first generation college students A Carpenter's Daughter is both a memoir of the author's experiences growing up going to school and becoming an academic and a thoughtful commentary on the meaning of class in American culture By connecting her own story with ideas from scholarly works on class and identity Christopher shows how her individual experiences reflect common struggles that people of working class background face when their education profession income and lifestyles change This work reminds us forcefully that moving up isn't necessarily good and that changing one's class isn't as simple as going to class or even becoming the teacher of the class Sherry Linkon author of Teaching Working Class The work is stellar merging the tangled and complex webs of social mobility through education in ways that leave lots of loose ends dangling just the way it should No pretty bows adorning carefully wrapped packages here No straight and narrow trajectory toward a mainstream version of success Instead readers will be pulled along by nuanced narratives portraying the warped nature of society's construction of success and a careful crafting of the book in its entirety as a disjointed text presenting shards of a life that can never be visible in a tidied up tale Stephanie Jones University of Georgia
