My Nisei Story A Journey Of Great Satisfaction:

My Nisei Story K. Jack Sameshima, 2005 Nisei Christian Journey, 1988 Community Newspapers and the Japanese-American Incarceration Camps Ronald Bishop, 2015-06-03 Though much has been said about Japanese American incarceration camps little attention is paid to the community newspapers closest to the camps and how they constructed the identities and lives of the occupants inside. Dependent on government and military officials for information these journalists rarely wrote about the violation of the evacuees civil rights. Instead they concentrated on the economic impact the camps and the evacuees who would replace workers off to enlist in the military and work for defense contractors would have on the areas they covered. Newspapers like the Cody Enterprise and Powell Tribune in Wyoming the Lamar Daily News and the Casa Grande Dispatch regularly published overly optimistic updates on the progress of construction the size of the contractor payrolls and the amount of materials used to build the camps. Ronald Bishop and his coauthors reveal how journalists positioned the incarceration camps as a potential economic boon and how evacuees were framed as another community group there to contribute to the region's economic well being. Community Newspapers and the Japanese American Incarceration Camps examines the rhetoric and journalistic approach of the local papers and how they informed the communities just outside their walls. This book will appeal to scholars of history and journalism. Shadow Traces Elena Tajima Creef, 2022-04-12 Images of Japanese and Japanese American women can teach us what it meant to be visible at specific moments in history. Elena Tajima Creef employs an Asian American feminist vantage point to examine ways of looking at indigenous Japanese Ainu women taking part in the 1904 Louisiana Purchase Exposition Japanese immigrant picture brides of the early twentieth century interned Nisei women in World War II camps and Japanese war brides who immigrated to the United States in the 1950s. Creef illustrates how an against the grain viewing of these images and other archival materials offers textual traces that invite us to reconsider the visual history of these women and other distinct historical groups. As she shows using an archival collection's range as a lens and frame helps us discover new intersections between race class gender history and photography. Innovative and engaging Shadow Traces illuminates how photographs shape the history of marginalized people and outlines a method for using such materials in interdisciplinary research.

When Half Is Whole Stephen Murphy-Shigematsu, 2012-10-10 I listen and gather people's stories. Then I write them down in a way that I hope will communicate something to others so that seeing these stories will give readers something of value. I tell myself that this isn't going to be done unless I do it just because of who I am. It's a way of making my mark leaving something behind not that I'm planning on going anywhere right now. So explains Stephen Murphy Shigematsu in this touching introspective and insightful examination of mixed race Asian American experiences. The son of an Irish American father and Japanese mother Murphy Shigematsu uses his personal journey of identity exploration and discovery of his diverse roots to illuminate the journeys of others. Throughout the book his reflections are interspersed among portraits of persons of biracial and mixed ethnicity and accounts of their efforts to answer a seemingly simple question Who am I Here we meet Norma raised in postwar Japan the daughter of a Japanese woman and an American serviceman who struggled to make sense of her ethnic heritage and national belonging Wei Ming born in Australia and raised in the San Francisco of the 1970s and 1980s grapples as well with issues of identity in her case both ethnic and sexual We also encounter Rudy a Mexipino Marshall a Jewish adopted Korean Mitzi a Blackinawan and other extraordinary people who find how connecting to all parts of themselves also connects them to others With its attention on people who have been regarded as half this or half that throughout their lives these stories make vivid the process of becoming whole
