

Personal Letter

Dear [Name],

I hope this letter finds you well. I wanted to take a moment to reach out and let you know how much I appreciate our friendship. You have always been there for me, offering a listening ear and a helping hand whenever I needed it.

I am writing to you today because I have some exciting news to share. I have decided to pursue a new career opportunity, and I will be moving to [new location] next month. I am both excited and a bit nervous about this change, but I know that it is the right decision for me.

I wanted to let you know that I will truly miss you. You have been such an important part of my life, and I will always treasure the memories we have shared together. I hope that we will stay in touch, and that our friendship will continue to grow and flourish even though we will be living in different places.

Please take care and know that you are always in my thoughts.

Sincerely, [Your Name]

Tim Jordan,2013-02-14 The internet has changed the way we communicate and so changed society and culture Internet Society and Culture offers an understanding of this change by examining two case studies of pre and post internet communication The first case study is of letters sent to and from Australia in 1835 1858 and the second is a study of online gaming In both case studies the focus is on the ways communication is created The result is the definition of two types of communication that are lived simultaneously in the twenty first century One type of communication is from before the internet and relies on the body having touched and created a message for example by attaching signature to stabilise the nature of sender message and receiver Internet dependant communication is different because no identity marker can be trusted on the internet and so individuals styles of communicating are used to stabilise the transmission of messages Being after the internet means having to live these two contradictory forms of communication The Magazine of Business ,1922
