History Evolution Thomas Flatt, Andreas Heyland, 2011-05-12 Life history theory seeks to explain the evolution of the major features of life cycles by analyzing the ecological factors that shape age-specific schedules of growth, reproduction, and survival, and by investigating the trade-offs that constrain the evolution of these traits. Although life history theory has made enormous progress in explaining the diversity of life history strategies among species, it traditionally ignores the underlying proximate mechanisms. This novel book argues that many fundamental problems in life history evolution, including the nature of trade-offs, can only be fully resolved if we begin to integrate information on developmental physiological and genetic mechanisms into the classical life history framework. Each chapter is written by an established or up-and-coming leader in their respective field; they not only represent the state of the art but also offer fresh perspectives for future research. The text is divided into 7 sections that cover basic concepts, Part 1 the mechanisms that affect different parts of the life cycle, growth, development and maturation reproduction and aging and somatic maintenance Parts 2-4 life history plasticity Part 5 life history integration and trade offs Part 6 and concludes with a synthesis chapter written by a prominent leader in the field and an editorial postscript Part 7 Personal History of Lord Bacon Dixon, 1861 2018 ICD-10-CM Hospital Professional Edition - E-Book Carol J. Vuorisalo,P. Mutikainen,2001-11-30 The lack of discussion of the life histories of modular organisms is the weakness of this book that I most regret Modular organisms are different S C Steams The Evolution of Life Histories 1992 Life history theory endeavours to increase our understanding of the processes whereby the broad features of the life cycles of organisms such as the timing and magnitude of reproduction have evolved Although reproductive traits have dominated as study objects due to their immediate importance for evolutionary success much work has also been conducted on patterns of development growth and senescence as well as on the shifts in resource allocation related to these processes The basic axiom of life history theory is that patterns of life histories such as reproductive traits are subject to evolutionary explanation This idea can be traced back at least as far as Darwin's Origin of Species 1859 In his discussion of plant domestication Darwin wrote I cannot doubt that the continued selection of slight variations either in the leaves the flowers or the fruit will produce races differing from each other chiefly in these characters Darwin was impressed by the success of plant breeders in moulding the growth and reproductive parameters of cultivated plants and believed that natural selection could have a similar impact in natural populations
