

STRESS MANAGEMENT

For Healthcare Workers

Jobs are the leading cause of stress in adults' lives, and research shows that employees in the healthcare industry are the most stressed of all. If you are a healthcare worker, here are some ways you can reduce stress levels at work.*

1 TRACK YOUR TRIGGERS

The first step is identifying where your stressors come from. Is it a certain situation, a particular coworker, or a patient behavior? Keeping track your stressors can help you recognize patterns and avoid a stress response altogether.

2 USE TALK THERAPY

Sometimes, talking things out and venting a little can help with stress tremendously. Whether you're talking to a coworker or even a hospital chaplain or therapist, taking a minute to get something off your chest and let yourself be comforted can be beneficial.

3 TAKE A BREAK

When you're extremely stressed at work, you may do or say things you normally wouldn't due to your frustration. It's important to take a moment to remove yourself from the situation (if you can), be alone, and take a breather to recharge.

4 FOCUS ON THE POSITIVE

It's been proven that the way you think influences how you feel overall. Engaging in positive and constructive self-talk and trying to keep an optimistic outlook is a step in the right direction to reducing stress.

5 TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF

Your overall health and physical condition can really influence how well you manage stress. Exercise, a balanced diet, and getting enough sleep can aid in improving your physical and mental health. Take time for activities outside of work to promote a healthy work-life balance.

Handbook of Clinical Psychology in Medical Settings Jerry J. Sweet,Ronald H. Rozensky,Steven M. Tovian,1991-04-30 For two decades I have been responding to questions about the nature of health psychology and how it differs from medical psychology behavioral medicine and clinical psychology From the beginning I have taken the position that any application of psychological theory or practice to problems and issues of the health system is health psychology I have repeatedly used an analogy to Newell and Simon s General Problem Solver program of the late 1950s and early 1960s which had two major functional parts in addition to the executive component One was the problem solving core the procedural competence the other was the representation of the problem environment In the analogy the concepts knowledge and techniques of psychology constitute the core competence the health system in all its complexity is the problem environment A health psychologist is one whose basic competence in psychology is augmented by a working knowledge of some aspect of the health system Quite apparently there are functionally distinct aspects of health psychology to the degree that there are meaningful subdivisions in psychological competence and significantly different microenvironments within the health system I hesitate to refer to them as areas of specialization as the man who gave health psychology its formal definition Joseph Matarazzo has said that there are no specialties in psychology cited in the editors preface to this book
