How to Talk to Your Cat Claire Bessant, 2023-03-16 Cats are fascinating creatures; they live so closely with us but can be difficult to fathom. Yet they do give us clues as to how they are feeling and what they are thinking; it is up to us to decipher them. Who would have guessed that just as we thought our cats have their own personalities which need an individual approach because no two cats are the same. In Claire Bessant's new update of her original bestselling book, she explores new ideas and findings to help us to understand and appreciate our own individual cats, to figure out how they approach life and to help us to figure out how we can bond with them more closely. How to Talk to Your Cat will help all cat owners and lovers to appreciate the dynamic between our two very different species, to learn how to understand our own cats. The key to success is of course to learn to think like a cat.

Oxytocin and Social Behaviour in Dogs and Other (Self-)Domesticated Species: Methodological Caveats and Promising Perspectives József Topál, Anna Kis, Jessica Oliva, Zsófia Virányi, 2019-08-22 Studying the relationship between different aspects of social behaviour and the oxytocin system in nonhuman animal species is a promising research area which may also have translational relevance for understanding the neuro-hormonal bases of human social cognitive abilities. In order to advance our understanding of social behavioural effects of oxytocin, this Research Topic eBook collects together contributions from researchers in social cognition and related fields whose work addresses cutting edge questions and important gaps in our knowledge of the behavioural effects of oxytocin in dogs and other domestic species.

Comparative Cognition James R. Anderson, Hika Kuroshima, 2021-08-27 This book presents an overview of selected topics in comparative cognition, which is the study of behaviour and mental activities in nonhuman animals. Human psychological capacities are often used as a heuristic by comparative cognitive scientists whose tasks include designing valid procedures for studying species' sensory, linguistic or manipulatory abilities that differ from those of humans. Nonetheless, researchers have developed many original ways to gain insights into how other species perceive the world, store and integrate information and communicate. The contributors to this book have all been involved in such work and will present some of the approaches that have led to clear advances in our understanding of cognitive processes in other species. The chapters integrate a review of past literature with recent work covering a variety of subject species, including birds, domestic dogs and cats, and nonhuman primates. All contributors have worked with or been otherwise influenced by Professor Kazuo Fujita, to whom the volume will be dedicated. Fujita's openness to research on various topics and species is reflected in the diversity of the chapters presented. The book will be of interest to students and more experienced researchers in diverse fields including psychology, anthropology, biology and veterinary.
