behaviour is determined by internal and external forces over which individuals have little or no control Accordingly psychologists have laboured to absorb the idea of the free and responsible individual into a pseudo scientific framework that denies moral agency The result is that ideas of right and wrong have been replaced with healthy and sick In their pursuit of a therapeutic state psychologists have medicalised morality and managers have embraced powerful myths about minds motive forces personality traits social conditioning leadership occupational stress and mental illness Consequently the twin ideas of personal freedom and responsibility have been sabotaged Freud Maslow Eysenck Skinner and other influential psychologists have denied or minimised the importance of personal responsibility And insofar as managers have entered into an unholy alliance with them they too have minimised personal responsibility at the workplace This book is about Australian managers and their long standing love affair with psychologists For fifty years the author has studied taught and consulted with managers and waltzed with several famous psychologists and an infamous psychiatrist Fortunately they represented both sides of the debate about personal responsibility and human freedom This book is therefore a personal and selective account of a professional life spent studying the problematic relationship between managers and psychologists

Senate Campaigns Kim Fridkin Kahn, Patrick J. Kenney, 2021-03-09 This book offers a bold comprehensive look at how campaigns actually work from the framing of issues to media coverage to voters decisions In so doing it challenges the common wisdom that campaigns are a noisy symbolic aspect of electoral politics in which the outcomes are determined mainly by economic variables or presidential popularity Campaigns the authors argue do matter in the political process Examining contested U S Senate races between 1988 and 1992 Kim Kahn and Patrick Kenney explore the details of the candidates strategies and messages the content tone and bias of the media coverage and the attitudes and behaviors of potential voters Kahn and Kenney discover that when the competition between candidates is strong political issues become clearly defined and the voting population responds Through a mix of survey data content analysis and interviews the authors demonstrate how competition influences serious political debates in elections Candidates take stands and compare themselves to their opponents The news media offer more coverage of the races presenting evaluations of the candidates positions critiques of their political careers and analyses of their campaign ads In response the voters pay closer attention to the rhetoric of the candidates as they learn more about central campaign themes often adjusting their own voting criteria The book concentrates on Senate races because of the variance in campaign strategy and spending media coverage and voter reactions but many of the findings apply to elections at all levels
