Administration T.F. Riggan,J.R. Lorenz,1985-01-01 Readings in Rehabilitation Administration fills the gap in the training of human service administrators and managers The selections reflect the growing needs trends and new requirements that directly affect the human services at both the national and local levels This text meets the needs of those innovative educators who are responsive to the needs of students the human resource field and the disabled While practitioners are well trained in their field many have little or no education or training for the management roles they assume Readings in

Rehabilitation Administration provides for the first time a curriculum content to prepare new administrators The articles included cover a wide range of not only current trends but classic topics which have passed the test of time An extensive bibliography categorizes rehabilitation administration management articles published during the past decade Army

Milkovich,John W. Boudreau,1988 New Perspectives on Human Resource Management (Routledge Revivals) John

Storey,2014-11-13 The idea of human resource management has become topical and controversial The term suggests that people in any organization are an asset to be upgraded and fully utilized rather than merely a variable cost to be minimized

This in turn implies that the way in which people are managed is a matter of crucial strategic concern Increased international competition has produced various initiatives world wide for new approaches to management in particular human resource management This searching set of interpretations first published in 1983 will be of interest to serious practitioners and students alike The Handbook of Human Resource Management Education Vida Gulbinas Scarpello,2008 HRM educators

Milkovich,1982 Analytics and Intuition in the Process of Selecting Talent Jürgen Deters,2022-11-07 Human decisions especially in management and personnel selection are based on making judgments about people analytically and intuitively

Yet in business and scientific contexts judgments are expected to be based on a rational analysis rather than intuitions or emotions Intuition is often seen as something mystical that should not be trusted and thus eliminated from human decision making Our empirical and theoretical research shows that this is impossible when people are dealing with people Instead intuitions and emotions have significant power in the decision making process Neuroscience even shows that humans are incapable of switching off their emotions or intuitions when making decisions Therefore intuition and emotions as evolutionary achievements of human beings should be looked at more closely to use the wisdom they offer This book provides an insight into the current state of research on rational analytical procedures in personnel selection and complements this with research on intuitions and emotions in personnel diagnostics By integrating scientifically verifiable rational analytical decision making procedures with the inner experiential knowledge of people this book bridges two complementary ways of recognizing and making good decisions It demonstrates how intuitions are developed and used in different fields of practice and cultures and how scientific research results from rational analytical and intuitive emotional selection procedures are successfully integrated by practitioners Monthly Labor Review, 1974 Publishes in depth articles on labor subjects current labor statistics information about current labor contracts and book reviews People Management and Development Mick Marchington, Adrian Wilkinson, 2002 This is the leading textbook for students taking the CIPD professional qualification and has been fully revised and rewritten to take account of the new academic standards that will be taught from September 2002 The title has been changed from Core Personnel and Development to People Management and Development to reflect the change in the standards Readings in Human Resource Management Michael Beer, Bert Spector, 1985
