Canonical Morphology and Syntax Dunstan Brown, Marina Chumakina, Greville G. Corbett, 2013 This is the first book to present Canonical Typology a framework for comparing constructions and categories across languages The canonical method takes the criteria used to define particular categories or phenomena eg negation finiteness possession to create a multidimensional space in which language specific instances can be placed In this way the issue of fit becomes a matter of greater or lesser proximity to a canonical ideal Drawing on the expertise of world class scholars in the field the book addresses the issue of cross linguistic comparability illustrates the range of areas from morphosyntactic features to reported speech to which linguists are currently applying this methodology and explores to what degree the approach succeeds in discovering the elusive canon of linguistic phenomena

Differential Subject Marking Helen de Hoop, Peter de Swart, 2007-12-04 Although almost all sentences have subjects not all sentences encode their subjects in the same way Some languages overtly mark some subjects but not others depending on certain features of the subject argument or the sentence in which the subject figures This phenomenon is known as Differential Subject Marking DSM Languages differ in which conditions govern DSM Some languages differentiate their subjects on the basis of semantic features of the argument such as thematic role volitionality animacy whereas others differentiate on the basis of clausal features such as tense aspect and the main dependent clause distinction DSM comes in different formal guises case marking agreement inverse systems and voice alternations Relatively much is known about cross linguistic variation in the marking of subjects yet little attempt has been made to formalize the facts This volume aims to unify formal approaches to language and presents both specific case studies of DSM and theoretical approaches
