

ASA SERIES ON HOW RACE AND ETHNICITY MATTER

Race, Ethnicity, and the Criminal Justice System

SEPTEMBER 2007

SERIES BACKGROUND

This online publication by the American Sociological Association (ASA) is one in a multipart series on the institutional aspects of race, racism, and race relations, a project that began as part of the commemoration of ASA's centennial (1905–2005) and designed for a general readership. As a professional membership association, the ASA seeks to promote the contributions and uses of sociology to the public. These synthetic summaries provide an overview of the research evidence on how race remains an important social factor in understanding disparities in the well-being of Americans in many important areas of life (including employment, health, income and wealth, housing, and neighborhoods, and criminal justice)—although demonstrable changes have occurred in American society over the last century.

Published under the auspices of ASA's Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy, these syntheses are based upon a vast literature of published research by sociologists and other scholars. They build on bodies of research that were reviewed and assessed at a working conference of 45 social scientists that attempted to create an integrated map of social science knowledge in these areas. The effort was organized by Felice I. Levine, former ASA Executive Officer, Roberta Spalter-Roth, Director of the ASA Research and Development Department, and Patricia E. White, Sociology Program Officer at the National Science Foundation (then on detail to ASA), and supported by generous grants from the Ford Foundation and the W.G. Kellogg Foundation.

In conjunction with the Clinton administration's Presidential Initiative on Race, Our America, the ASA was encouraged by the White House Office of Science Technology Policy to undertake this ambitious examination of relevant areas of research, explicate what the social sciences know, dispel myths and misconceptions about race, and identify gaps in our knowledge. The purpose of the President's overall initiative, begun in late 1997, was to "help educate the nation about the facts surrounding the issue of race" and included many activities such as university-community and national dialogues, government initiatives and conferences, and topical reports.

Two other publications in this series, Race, Ethnicity, and the Health of Americans and Race, Ethnicity, and the American Labor Market: What's at Work? can be found on the ASA Web site at http://www.asanet.org/palivres/default.asp?race_ethnicity_health.pdf http://www.asanet.org/palivres/default.asp?race_ethnicity_LaborMarket.pdf.

This research brief highlights data and research findings on racial and ethnic disparities in crime and the criminal justice system in the United States, with particular emphasis on studies that illustrate differences that can be explained by discrimination. The discussion focuses on issues relating to race/ethnicity in different stages of criminal justice processing at the beginning of the twenty-first century; data reflecting trends over time are presented for context. It seeks to present a balanced picture of what is known about these issues from systematic research evidence. While the concluding section presents some areas where research is incomplete, the thrust of this brief is to lay out some of the important scientific knowledge that helps us understand the intersection of race/ethnicity and the criminal justice system in America.
