Perspectives in Aesthetics Peyton E. Richter, 1967 Perspectives in Aesthetics. Plato to Camus. D. by Peyton E. Richter,.... Peyton E.. Richter, 1967 Perspectives in Aesthetics: Plato to Camus, 1967 The Oxford Handbook of the Phenomenology of Music Cultures Harris M. Berger, Friedlind Riedel, David VanderHamm, 2024 This handbook is currently in development with individual articles publishing online in advance of print publication At this time we cannot add information about unpublished articles in this handbook however the table of contents will continue to grow as additional articles pass through the review process and are added to the site Please note that the online publication date for this handbook is the date that the first article in the title was published online Plato and Socrates (RLE: Plato) Richard McKirahan, 2012-11-12 This valuable work of reference provides a comprehensive bibliography on all scholarly work that was published on Plato and Socrates during the years 1958-73 It thus forms an important addition to Harold Cherniss's bibliography which covered the years 1950-7 The author has sought to include all materials primarily concerned with Socrates and Plato together with other works which make a contribution to our understanding of the two philosophers The bibliography is arranged by topic and there are cross references at the end of each section The works in each category are arranged chronologically and then alphabetically by author within each year An effort has been made to distinguish when a book has had more than one edition and when an article has been reprinted Additionally the author has listed reviews of books and dissertations as these have come to his attention Interpreting Cultures J. Hart, 2016-09-23 This book focuses on how we perceive, know and interpret culture across disciplinary boundaries The study combines theoretical and critical contexts for close readings in culture through discussions of literature, philosophy, history, psychology and visual arts by and about men and women in Europe, the Americas and beyond Complex Pleasure Stanley Corngold, 1998 Complex Pleasure deals with questions of literary feeling in eight major German writers: Lessing, Kant, Herder, Nietzsche, Musil, Kafka, Trakl and Benjamin On the basis of close readings of these authors Stanley Corngold makes vivid the following ideas: that where there is literature there is complex pleasure; that this pleasure is complex because it involves the impression of a disclosure that this thought is foremost in the minds of a number of canonical writers; that important literary works in the German tradition (fiction, poetry, critique) can be illuminated through their treatment of literary feeling; and finally that the conceptual terms for these forms of feeling continually vary The types of feeling treated in Complex Pleasure include wit, the startling perception of likeness and the disinterested pleasure of aesthetic judgment Herder's swift conceptual grasp in which the tempo of the process of thought is stressed, artistic imagination, mood, sadistic enjoyment, rapturous distraction, homonymic dissonance and courage as a mode of literary experience At the same time, through the deftness, range and surprise of its execution, the book itself conveys complex pleasure The reader will also find fascinating hitherto untranslated material by Nietzsche on moods and Kafka important sections from his journals and from his unfinished novel The Boy Who Sank Out of Sight Routledge

Virginia Woolf: The Frames of Art and Life C. Ruth Miller, 1988-11-24 An attempt to illuminate Virginia Woolf's aesthetic by providing an original theory regarding her use of the random frames provided by life. Maternal Metaphors of Power in African American Women's Literature Geneva Cobb Moore, 2017-03-31 An in-depth examination of Black women's experiences as portrayed in literature throughout American history. Geneva Cobb Moore deftly combines literature history, criticism, and theory in Maternal Metaphors of Power in African American Women's Literature by offering insight into the historical Black experience from slavery to freedom as depicted in the literature of nine female writers across several centuries. Moore traces Black women writers' creation of feminine and maternal metaphors of power in literature from the colonial era work of Phillis Wheatley to the postmodern efforts of Paule Marshall, Alice Walker, and Toni Morrison. Through their characters, Moore shows how these writers re-created the identity of Black women and challenge existing rules shaping their subordinate status and behavior. Drawing on feminist psychoanalytic and other social science theory, Moore examines the maternal iconography and counter-hegemonic narratives by which these writers responded to oppressive conventions of race, gender, and authority. Moore grounds her account in studies of Wheatley, Harriet Jacobs, Charlotte Forten, Grimké, Jessie Fauset, Nella Larsen, and Zora Neale Hurston. All these authors, she contends, wrote against invisibility and powerlessness by developing and cultivating a personal voice and an individual story of vulnerability, nurturing capacity, and agency that confounded prevailing notions of race and gender and called into question moral reform. In these nine writers' construction of feminine images, real and symbolic, Moore finds a shared sense of the historically significant role of Black women in the liberation struggle during slavery, the Jim Crow period, and beyond. A foreword is offered by Andrew Billingsley, a pioneering sociologist and a leading scholar in African American
