Perspectives On New Testament Textual Criticism:

Perspectives on New Testament Textual Criticism, Volume 2 Eldon Jay Epp, 2020-11-30 Eldon Jay Epp's second volume of collected essays consists of articles previously published during 2006-2017. All treat aspects of the New Testament textual criticism but focus on historical and methodological issues relevant to constructing the earliest attainable text of New Testament writings. More specific emphasis falls upon the nature of textual transmission and the text critical process and heavily on the criteria employed in establishing that earliest available text. Moreover, textual grouping is examined at length and prominent is the current approach to textual variants not approved for the constructed text for they have stories to tell regarding theological, ethical and real life issues as the early Christian churches sought to work out their own status, practices and destiny.

Perspectives on New Testament Textual Criticism Eldon Jay Epp, 2005-06-01 This collection of frequently cited articles and chapters published from 1962 to 2004 provides perspective on the history and development of New Testament textual criticism with descriptions and critique of the major text critical theories and methods. Specific manuscripts and text types such as the Codex Bezae and the D text are discussed as well as issues such as anti-Judaic tendencies, the ascension narratives and the relationship of text and canon. Many of the essays from the last fifteen years emphasize the earliest period and papyrus manuscripts, particularly those found at Oxyrhynchus, and assess their socio-cultural and intellectual contexts while articles from the last five years advocate or engage the more controversial aspects of current New Testament textual criticism, especially the issue of original text.

Scribes, Motives, and Manuscripts Alan Mugridge, 2024-08-02 In this volume Alan Mugridge reviews claims that scribes of New Testament manuscripts altered the text of their copies to further their own beliefs, to stop people using them to support opposing beliefs or for some other purpose. He discusses the New Testament passages about which these claims are made in detail, noting their context, exegesis and supporting manuscripts. He concludes that while a small number of such claims are valid, most are doubtful because unless a scribe's habits are clear in one manuscript, we cannot know how the changes came about, why they were made, who made them and when they were made. He argues that the bulk of the erroneous readings in New Testament manuscripts reviewed were made by scribal slips.

during the copying process and not in order to further anyone's personal agenda adding strength to the reliability of the Greek New Testament text available today despite the need to refine current editions to be as close as possible to the original text

Changing the Goalpost of New Testament Textual Criticism Abidan Paul Shah, 2020-10-02 Before the 1960s the goal of New Testament Textual Criticism was singular to retrieve the original text of the New Testament Since then the goalpost has incrementally shifted away from the original text to retrieving any text or many texts of the NT Some scholars have even concluded that the original text is hopelessly lost and cannot be retrieved with any confidence or accuracy Other scholars have gone a step further to claim that the idea of an original text itself is a misconception that needs to be abandoned If this new approach in NTTC is correct then the authority of Scripture is weakened or no longer valid It will be shown in this book that such is not the case Furthermore emphasis will be placed on the need to return to the traditional goalpost of NTTC i e to retrieve the original text Without a generally definitive text the door will be left wide open to recreate any desired text of the NT An unsettled original text will result in an unsettled biblical theology due to a lack of any authoritative and standard text Consequently it will lead to an unsettled Christian faith and practice

No Longer Written Ryan Donald Wettlaufer, 2013-03-01 This is an important time for textual criticism of the New Testament A fundamental re evaluation is underway of both the purpose of the discipline and the nature of the manuscripts upon which it relies The place of the controversial method of conjectural emendation is a debate that encompasses both of these issues In this study Ryan Wettlaufer explores the theory and practice of the method and then using the Epistle of James as a case study argues that conjectural emendation is an important tool that can be used to restore readings which were once found in the original text but now are No Longer Written Book jacket

Kloppenborg, Judith H. Newman, 2012-06-21

The Bible is likely the most edited book in history yet the task of editing the Hebrew Aramaic and Greek texts of the Bible is fraught with difficulties The dearth of Hebrew manuscripts of the Jewish Scriptures and the substantial differences among those witnesses creates difficulties in determining which text ought to be printed as the text of the Jewish Scriptures For the New Testament it is not the dearth of manuscripts but the overwhelming number of manuscripts almost six thousand Greek manuscripts and many more in other languages that presents challenges for sorting and analyzing such a large multivariant data set This volume representing experts in the editing of the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament discusses both current achievements and future challenges in creating modern editions of the biblical texts in their original languages The contributors are Kristin De Troyer Michael W Holmes John S Kloppenborg Sarianna Metso Judith H Newman Holger Strutwolf Eibert Tigchelaar David Trobisch Eugene Ulrich John Van Seters Klaus Wachtel and Ryan Wettlaufer
